

Global Green and Healthy Hospitals (GGHH) Pacific Region

About the GGHH Pacific Network:

GGHH is a worldwide network of health institutions working to reduce the health sector's environmental footprint and foster a healthy future for people and the planet.

The Climate and Health Alliance co-ordinates GGHH in the Pacific Region (Australia and New Zealand). GGHH is a project of international Non-Governmental Organisation, Health Care Without Harm.

As of October 2022, there are 131 GGHH members representing the interests of over 2,230 hospitals and health services across Australia and New Zealand.

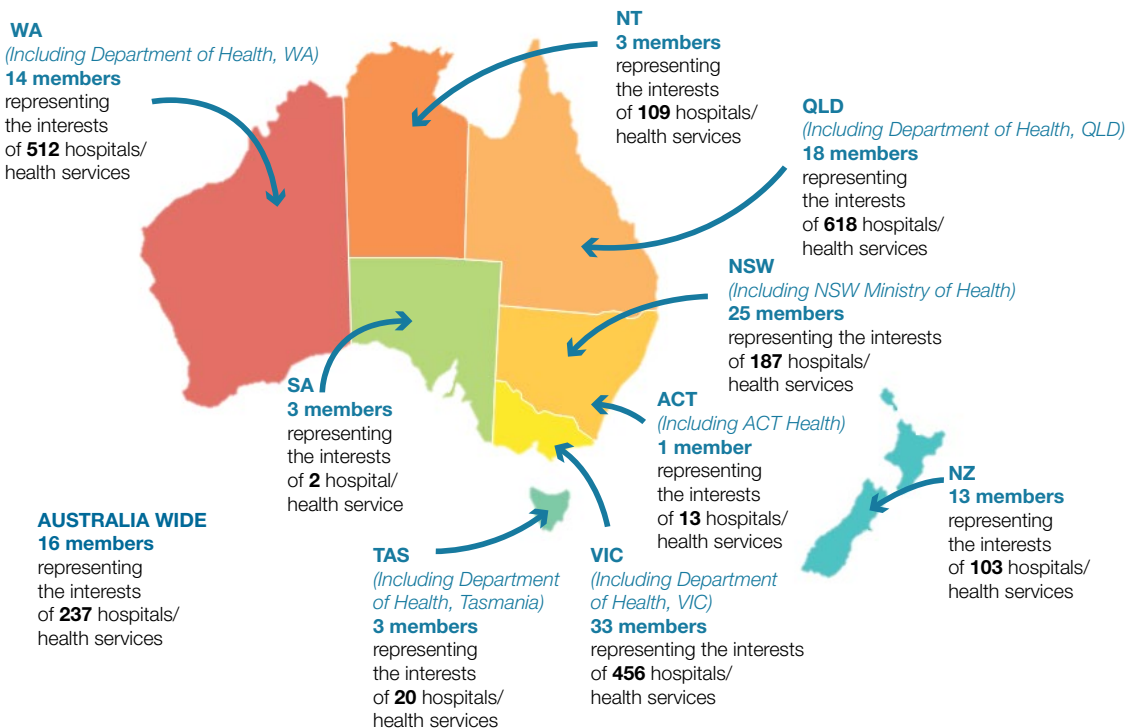

Globally there are over 1,633 members from 79 countries who represent the interests of more than 62,000 hospitals and health services.

GGHH Pacific is a collaborative community in which members learn from one another by sharing information and experiences to help accelerate the transition to low carbon, environmentally sustainable healthcare across the world.

GGHH members in Australia and New Zealand are being internationally recognised for their accomplishments in greening the health sector and improving global public health through action on climate change.

Global Green and Healthy Hospitals have 131 members in the Pacific region representing over 2,230 hospitals and health services

GGHH is based around a framework of 10 interconnected goals that guide practice.

Membership: GGHH membership is free of charge for hospitals, health and aged care facilities, health systems and health organisations.

As a joining member, your organisation or health service will select two goals to pledge to work towards. These are chosen from the ten goals that are laid out in the GGHH Agenda and aim to address and promote greater sustainability and environmental health within the sector.

Once an organisation becomes a member, nominated employees can access the online tools and resources that are available, including:

- Discussion forums that provide a space for members worldwide to meet virtually to ask questions, share experiences, and collaborate.
- Online data centre to assist with measuring environmental impacts and tracking progress.
- Guidance documents outline opportunities to reduce environmental impacts within a goal area, including step by step guide and links to further resource.
- Case studies provided by the international network of GGHH members that highlight successful initiatives across the ten goals.
- Webinars offered on topics including the GGHH goals, current events of interest, and important research and publications.
- Newsletters that are sent bi-monthly will provide information such as upcoming events, new tools and resources, and news from the international GGHH network.
- Pacific region member meetings that provide an opportunity to network with others working in sustainable healthcare.
- Pacific region email group to receive weekly emails of the latest sustainable healthcare news, events and resources. A platform to communicate with other Pacific region GGHH members.
