

CICLAVIA

2025 IMPACT REPORT

Connecting People, Places, and Possibility in Los Angeles

Dear CicLAvia community,

2025 marked fifteen years of CicLAvia, a milestone for our movement to reshape how Angelenos experience our city and region. Then, as now, we were powered by a simple vision: when we take back streets for people, we create space for possibility. Today, we've glimpsed some of the possible: joyous moments, strengthened local businesses, safer streets, and healthier communities.

This year brought real challenges. Across the region, we felt the weight of wildfires, economic uncertainty, and the fear and disruption caused by ICE raids. Out of care for our communities, we made the difficult decision to postpone the June CicLAvia Sunday, Historic South Central meets Watts. At CicLAvia, these moments reminded us what it truly means to move through uncertainty, not just on two wheels or on foot, but facing big questions about the future of our city with resilience, care, and hope, together.

As we look back on 2025, we do so with deep gratitude for your energy, your resilience, and your shared commitment to a connected Los Angeles. There was much to celebrate in 2025! We deepened longtime partnerships and explored new routes. Our collaboration with artist Patrick Martinez helped us uplift the idea of "Joy as a Human Right," a reminder that public space should always be a safe place for connection, belonging, and celebration. That message struck a chord this year when choosing joy often felt like an act of resistance and a way to affirm our shared humanity.

Everything we do comes from the relationships we've built with residents, local businesses, civic partners, and supporters who believe in a more connected Los Angeles. In 2025, we didn't just grow, we deepened relationships by showing up for one another and imagining a Los Angeles that is more joyful, inclusive, and sustainable. With your continued support and partnership, we will continue to emphasize the importance of designing and building infrastructure for people.

On behalf of CicLAvia's board and staff, thank you for being part of this journey. Every open street, every smile, every moment of joy, is because of you. We're grateful for your trust, your energy, and your belief in what's possible, and can't wait to keep moving forward together.

With gratitude and optimism,

Romel Pascual

But behind every open street is a team of dedicated people and generous supporters who believe in a more connected and sustainable city.

“ With CicLAvia’s support, I organized the first ever community led 5K in West Adams history bringing runners from across LA County to our streets. At its core, CicLAvia is about catalyzing vibrant public spaces that connect diverse communities and that’s exactly what happened here. Thank you Carmen & CicLAvia. ”

GENEROUS SUPPORTERS

In addition to our dedicated team, CicLAvia's work is made possible through a broad base of public and private support.

Together, these resources sustain the people, planning, and infrastructure behind every CicLAvia Sunday and beyond.

Partnerships with Metro and local cities cover roughly half of our annual budget, sponsorships and foundation grants provide another significant share, and individual contributions account for nearly 10% of total support. This personal giving is an act of investment in our collective future and in the shared vision of a Los Angeles where public space belongs to everyone.

Now I'm a Street Star because every event reminds me why I love this city: the culture, the people, and the sights and sounds. CicLAvia brings Los Angeles to life in a way nothing else does.

MISSION-ALIGNED SPONSORSHIPS

Sponsorships are a critical component of CicLAvia's funding.

They provide resources that complement public funding and individual giving while enabling innovative programming.

In 2025, we collaborated with 22 returning sponsors and welcomed 12 new partners, reflecting both the strength of longstanding relationships and the continued appeal of CicLAvia as a platform for meaningful engagement.

Our approach to sponsorship goes beyond financial support to also reflect values-based collaborations. We prioritize partners whose missions align with CicLAvia. These partnerships allow sponsors to engage participants in authentic ways while amplifying the impact of our events.

Through these collaborations, sponsors contribute to a wide range of experiences along each route such as health and wellness programming, sampling new products and services, spaces for fun and entertainment, art workshops, and essential shaded seating areas.

By aligning with organizations that share our values, CicLAvia ensures that every sponsored activation enhances the participant experience, strengthens community connections, and supports the ongoing sustainability of our events.

The activations were amazing and the lines at some of the businesses were insane. After all the pain we’ve been through on Melrose in the last decade, having an event like yesterday’s felt like a victory celebration; a rebirth and a hope for a brighter, more promising tomorrow. ”

OUTREACH

CicLAvia's work begins months before event day. Our outreach team conducts extensive door-to-door canvassing along every route, connecting directly with residents and businesses. This in-person work, paired with community meetings, multilingual materials, and partnerships with neighborhood organizations ensures that each event is rooted in local collaboration and shaped by community input.

Through these efforts, we build trust and foster long-term relationships across Los Angeles. Engagement is not only about logistics or promotion; it's about co-creating experiences that reflect and honor the character of each neighborhood.

John C. Fremont Branch Library

Built in 1927, this LA Public Library branch showcases classic Spanish Colonial Revival architecture. Tucked into the bustle of Melrose, it is a peaceful spot to explore, admire the intricate tilework, enjoy a book, and soak in a bit of local history.

All Roads Lead to Culver City

mural by @brooklyndwildflowers is a nod to the region’s natural beauty. The mural’s title echoes Culver City’s original slogan, coined by founder Harry Culver, highlighting the city’s central location and easy access by road and rail.

Almost 60% of local businesses asked reported new or more customers as a result of CicLAvia.

Hollenbeck Park

Hollenbeck Park has been a Boyle Heights community greenspace since 1892. Altered during the construction of the 5 Freeway in the 1950s, the park is a great place to take a break, admire nature, and picnic.

NEIGHBORHOOD PRIDE

In 2025, we shared 180 Local Gems along event routes. These small businesses, cultural landmarks, and community spaces reflect the diversity and spirit that bring Angelenos together, while also strengthening the economic activity and visibility for local businesses beyond event day.

Black Sheep Studio has worked with CicLAvia since year one, producing many of the printed pieces used during events. We are a family-owned, small printing business, and CicLAvia is one of our most beloved clients. We have grown together, and our partnership has been a big part of our success. We are immensely grateful for the work they trust us with along with the love and inspiration they give to our neighborhoods and communities.

- Ricardo, Owner Black Sheep Studio

I want to share my deepest gratitude and put into words how important CicLAvia–Heart of LA has been to our neighborhood and to the small businesses that keep this community alive. With the support of our elected officials and community leaders, CicLAvia continues to be one of the few events that brings hope, energy, and real economic impact to Boyle Heights.

Since opening Distrito Catorce, CicLAvia has become the one event my business neighbors and our community look forward to every year. It plays a crucial role in helping us generate enough revenue to get through the difficult months of January and February. Just as important, it introduces us to new neighbors year after year, allowing us to grow in an honest and organic way with the community we love to serve.

This year has been the hardest since the pandemic. I can say without hesitation that if CicLAvia had not taken place, we would likely be facing the possibility of not making it to February of next year. Your work and your team’s advocacy make a real difference for small businesses like ours and for the well-being of our entire corridor.

Thank you for standing with our community and for helping ensure events like this continue to uplift our neighborhood.

CULTURAL PARTNERSHIPS

CicLAvia routes also became stages for art, sound, and movement in 2025. Collaborations with artists and cultural partners from Patrick Martinez's Joy is a Human Right collection to dublab's live performances and the Bicicrófono karaoke bike invited participants to experience Los Angeles' creativity up close. We were also grateful for the programming support we received this year from the offices of Councilmember Eunisses Hernandez (CD1), County Supervisor Holly J. Mitchell (SD2), and County Supervisor Lindsey Horvath (SD3). These partnerships demonstrate how culture and community can powerfully intersect in public space.

*I pitched the idea of an interactive activation on the day of, and they agreed. This experience by far has been one of my better collaborative experiences as a whole. ## CIVIC PARTNERSHIPS

CicLAvia collaborates with local coalitions and thought leaders to bring knowledge and resources to Angelenos. Throughout the year, we expanded public engagement around sustainability, equity, and active transportation while helping residents to build relationships with city agencies and their local leaders. Working with local elected representatives across Los Angeles is integral to our mission. We believe deeply in fostering civic engagement for all.

CicLAvia brings knowledge and resources to Angelenos.

Fire Relief

In the wake of the devastating wildfires in January, CicLAvia mobilized to support Day One's Fire Relief Campaign to provide replacement bikes for those impacted. We were able to contribute in a meaningful way to the collective response across the region by offering free booth space to community organizations, helping spread the word, and hosting a fundraising drive.

CivSalon

The latest installation of CivSalon took place on May 6, and featured a panel of transportation advocates gathered to tackle a big question: How will Los Angeles rise to the occasion in preparing mobility solutions for upcoming global mega-events, including the FIFA World Cup, Super Bowl LXI, and the Summer Olympics and Paralympics? The evening was powered by CicLAvia, in partnership with the Los Angeles Cleantech Incubator (LACI), and sponsored by MoveLA.

The evening reminded us all that meaningful change starts with shared dialogue—and continues with collective action. When we come together to talk about mobility, equity, and the future of our streets, we shape a city that is for everyone.

Living Lab

Better Bike Share Partnership's Living Labs initiative is a national program led by PeopleForBikes. As a current Living Lab grantee, CicLAvia is collaborating with Metro Bike Share, Bike LA, LA Walks and Walk 'n Rollers to expand access to shared micromobility in BIPOC and low-income communities across the county.

This work includes community engagement in the planning of new Metro Bike Share stations, educational programming, and outreach. In addition to distributing 20,000+ flyers to neighborhoods, thousands of people had the opportunity to offer feedback and engage with the activations at West Adams meets University Park, Koreatown meets Hollywood, Pico Union, and Culver City meets Venice.

South LA Eco-Lab

The South LA Eco-Lab is a community-driven initiative funded by the California Strategic Growth Council (SGC)'s Transformative Climate Communities Program (TCC). With 11 interconnected partners, it brings together residents, small businesses, community-based organizations, and public agencies to address long-standing environmental and economic challenges in South Los Angeles. The focus is on "Economic Development through Climate Action" to achieve the community's vision for a socially inclusive, sustainable, green community resilient to climate change.

For our part, CicLAvia created the Eco-Lab Hub at Historic South Central meets Watts on September 14 hosting 6 of the partner organizations to engage directly with the community about their projects.

A group of people riding bicycles on a city street, overlaid with a teal filter and white dashed lines. The scene is captured from a low angle, showing the front of the bikes and the riders' heads and shoulders. The riders are wearing helmets and casual clothing. The background is a blurred city street with other cyclists and buildings. The overall mood is active and urban.

INSPIRING MOVEMENT

By combining education, design, and joyful participation, CicLAvia
continues to inspire Angelenos to imagine and demand a city built for people, not just cars.

A CITY DESIGNED FOR PEOPLE

Each open street event replaces traffic with human connection and shows what our city can look like when streets are designed for people.

Surveys consistently show that participants leave CicLAvia events more likely to walk, roll, or bike in their neighborhoods, reflecting a lasting shift in behavior that extends far beyond event day. These experiences make active transportation a lived, shared possibility, not an abstract goal.

In 2025, through our collaboration with Los Angeles Department of Transportation, event participants had opportunities to offer feedback and learn firsthand about new infrastructure and mobility projects, including the Rail to Rail Corridor, Safe Routes for Seniors, the MLK Jr. Boulevard Safety and Mobility Project, and the Spring/Alameda Safety and Mobility Project. These improvements are integral to shaping safer, more connected streets across the region.

Every event is a platform for connection, wellbeing, and shared experience. When surveyed:

of participants said they're most likely to walk in their neighborhood after the event

99%

of participants said they want more neighborhood events

“ CicLAvia is our favorite family event. There's music everywhere, and it's so nice to appreciate our beautiful city's streets together. My kids love it—it's become a family tradition. **”

-Nick Melvoin, LAUSD Board Member

Our commitment to connecting communities, supporting small businesses, and modeling sustainable, accessible transportation remains at the core of everything we do.

LOOKING AHEAD

CicLAvia events are for anyone and everyone who wants to celebrate the unique heart and soul of Los Angeles. Since 2010, our non-profit organization has transformed city streets into temporary, car-free playgrounds, creating spaces where people can move, connect, and explore their communities. While each CicLAvia Sunday is a single-day experience, the collective impact of our programming extends far beyond any one moment—reimagining Los Angeles County’s streets not just as corridors for transportation, but as vibrant public spaces that foster healthier people, stronger communities, and more sustainable cities.

In 2026, we will be continuing this work with new routes and collaborations across the region. As Los Angeles prepares to host global mega-events like the FIFA World Cup and the 2028 Olympic and Paralympic Games, CicLAvia is uniquely positioned to showcase and scale inclusive, people-centered infrastructure and programming.

We believe deeply that this is an opportunity for Los Angeles and every Angeleno. Whatever infrastructure or behavior changes that result from these events must benefit our region in the long term and we are already working with a number of partners to make that possible. Through it all, our commitment to connecting communities, supporting small businesses, and modeling sustainable, accessible transportation remains at the core of everything we do.

We are grateful to everyone who makes CicLAvia possible from participants and volunteers to sponsors, foundations, and individual donors. Join us in shaping the future of Los Angeles.
