

PIVOT TO THE LOCAL PEACE ECONOMY

Step into the Economy Beyond Transactional Relationships

In a world shaped by scarcity and commodification, try to imagine—and practice—other ways of being with one another, where generosity becomes a form of resistance and regeneration.

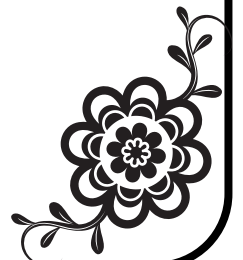

What are ways you experience transactional exchanges in your life?

Can you name the emotion that drives the transactional exchanges you experience? (too busy, habits, fears, etc)

Where in your life do you experience the free flow of sharing and giving?

What 3 small changes could you make in your life to make room for more gifting in your life? Where can you give more to start the flow? What experiments could you try?

What is present when you experience gifting?

Want to learn more about the Local Peace Economy? Find us: www.codepink.org/peaceeconomy