

In Superman, we're watching something hauntingly familiar: a powerful state waging war on a trapped civilian population, a global superpower choosing complicity over justice, and a narrative war where truth is the first casualty.

*Superman Isn't About Gaza—But It Sure Feels Like It
—Medea Benjamin*

Every year, the military spends a trillion dollars on weapons and war. Meanwhile, millions struggle to afford basic necessities like groceries, rent, and healthcare.

Superman reminds us that it is in our power to stand with Palestine, the people and the Planet! No more tax dollars towards warmaking!

cutthepentagon.org/reducepentagonbudget

Sign the petition to Cut the War Budget &
invest in the people!

CODEPINK

In Superman, we're watching something hauntingly familiar: a powerful state waging war on a trapped civilian population, a global superpower choosing complicity over justice, and a narrative war where truth is the first casualty.

Superman Isn't About Gaza—But It Sure Feels Like It
—Medea Benjamin

Every year, the military spends a trillion dollars on weapons and war. Meanwhile, millions struggle to afford basic necessities like groceries, rent, and healthcare.

Superman reminds us that it is in our power to stand with Palestine, the people and the Planet! No more tax dollars towards warmaking!

cutthepentagon.org/reducepentagonbudget

Sign the petition to Cut the War Budget & invest in the people!

CODEPINK

In Superman, we're watching something hauntingly familiar: a powerful state waging war on a trapped civilian population, a global superpower choosing complicity over justice, and a narrative war where truth is the first casualty.

Superman Isn't About Gaza—But It Sure Feels Like It
—Medea Benjamin

Every year, the military spends a trillion dollars on weapons and war. Meanwhile, millions struggle to afford basic necessities like groceries, rent, and healthcare.

Superman reminds us that it is in our power to stand with Palestine, the people and the Planet! No more tax dollars towards warmaking!

cutthepentagon.org/reducepentagonbudget

Sign the petition to Cut the War Budget & invest in the people!

CODEPINK