HOW WELL IS YOUR WELL WATER?

Approximately 46 per cent of Nova Scotians rely primarily on groundwater from dug or drilled wells for their private supply. Private well owners are responsible for ensuring that their wells are constructed to provincial standards and for testing their water regularly to confirm that it is free of any natural or man-made impurities. It is recommended that you test your well twice a year for Bacterial Contamination and every two years for Chemical Analysis. For your bacteria test, ask the lab for a Presence/Absence (PA) test for total coliform and E. coli bacteria. This test costs about $30 to $50. For a chemical contaminant test, the cost can range from $200 to $300 but that depends on what chemicals and/or heavy metals you are wanting to be tested for. More information can be found at: www.novascotia.ca/nse/water/drinking.water.asp.

AID FOR INADEQUATE WATER SUPPLY

With another hot summer and little rainfall, the level of ground water supply is more challenging for rural residents with on-site wells to access. HRM can offer some assistance to rectify the problem. There is a bylaw whereby landowners that are experiencing inadequate water supply on their properties can now apply to the municipality to assist with the financing of drilling a new well or seek other water supply alternatives such as adding a cistern for a storage reservoir. Basically, you are taking out a loan from HRM that places a lien on your property like any other local improvement charge (LIC). This is a similar arrangement for the Solar City Program. More information about this program, including application information can be found at: www.halifax.ca/home-property/property-taxes/inadequate-water-supply-program. If you need further help completing the application form, you can e-mail: bylawc1000@halifax.ca or call 3-1-1 or 902-490-4000.

'GO HERE' PUBLIC WASHROOM ACCESS

There are many individuals who benefit from increased washroom accessibility. These include individuals with various conditions that cause incontinence issues, such as certain neurological disorders and cancer. Seniors, pregnant women and young children are groups who also benefit from the 'GoHere' program. The 'GoHere' Washroom Access Program employs innovative practices by utilizing a three-pronged strategy: business outreach and storefront signage; a digital and dynamic app designed to find accessible washrooms before leaving your home; and an access card, to raise awareness when Canadians face questions regarding their medical considerations and accommodation needs. The program helps create communities that are understanding, supportive and accessible for Canadians with disabilities that cause incontinence. This would be a great opportunity to get our local businesses and community facilities listed as a good place “to go”. Interested in volunteering with GoHere? Fill out a volunteer application form: www.crohnsandcolitis.ca/Get-Involved/Volunteer-with-us/Volunteer-application-form and indicate that you are specifically applying for the 'GoHere' Washroom Access Program. If you would like additional information or have a question, please email them at: gohere@crohnsandcolitis.ca.

AED REGISTRY MAP

Sudden cardiac arrest can happen at any time, to anyone, at any age and in any location. By immediately performing CPR and using an Automated External Defibrillator (AED), you provide the patient an increased chance of survival. Following cardiac arrest, every minute that passes without the use of an AED lowers the patient's chance of living by 7 to 10 per cent. Ideally, an AED should be administered within three to five minutes. Public access defibrillator (PAD) programs have been increasing in popularity over the past few decades with the goal of increasing AED quantity and usage in their specified areas. To view the NS AED Registry map, visit nsgi.novascotia.ca/EHS-NS-Volunteer-AED-Map/. Get your place of business or community facility put on the map: www.savelivesns.ca/registration/.

DISTRICT BOUNDARY HEARING RESET

The Nova Scotia Utility and Review Board (NSUARB) gave notice that the public hearing and evening session for the municipality's 2022 District Boundary Review application (Matter No. M10924), originally scheduled for May 31 had been postponed due to the recent wildfires. The NSUARB has rescheduled the public hearing session for the evening of Thursday, September 7 starting at 6:30 p.m. at NSUARB Offices, 1601 Lower Water Street, 3rd Floor, in Halifax. The deadline for speakers to register at the original hearing was May 10, therefore there will not be an opportunity for additional speakers to register to speak at the rescheduled hearing. Further background information on the HRM 2022 District Boundary Review study can be found online at www.halifax.ca/boundaryreview.
