

The Invasion of America's Patent System and Erosion of Our Individual Liberties

America is in an innovation race that we are now losing. To gain a deeper insight into the Innovation Race, we invited a true American patriot and hero, a retired Air Force Brigadier General, Robert Spalding back to the Economic War Room® for this briefing.

General Spalding has been in the Economic War Room® multiple times, sharing incredible insight from his time in the Air Force and his time in industry. He has a doctorate in economics and mathematics along with numerous masters degrees and high-level certificates, not to mention he's fluent in Mandarin Chinese. General Spalding is also the CEO and founder of SEMPRE, the only true technology company created to protect and secure our most critical resource, which is data.

“For the past century, America has been the world leader in ideas, invention, and innovation, developing new technologies to solve complex issues, as well as tools to make our lives more comfortable and efficient. This is the realization of the American dream for many.

But our grip on world leader status is loosening as China has emerged as a powerful political and industrial force. Today, China is threatening American innovation and national security by exploiting weaknesses in US patent protection, and big tech is letting them get away with it. Innovation Race explores these critical issues impacting all Americans and proposes solutions for how we can restore US dominance in invention, technology, and innovation.” —Innovation Race (synopsis)

Watch Innovation Race – Every American Needs to See and Understand this Threat to Our Economy, Security, and National Security.

- The film focuses on one of the most important aspects of the economic war that we now face – the invasion of America's once superior patent system and our individual liberties.
- It was the 2022 winner of the Anthem Film Festival's Excellence in Filmmaking Award.

Other friends include Gordon Chang, Colonel John Mills, Jenny Beth Martin, Declan Ganley and today’s special guest, General Robert Spalding.” –Kevin Freeman

Your Mission: Be aware of the overt invasion of America’s patent system and how we must fight back and win the innovation race if America is going to survive and prosper.

Ep. 6-217 (OSINT) Open-Sourced Intelligence Report. This briefing includes conversations with Kevin Freeman and General Robert Spalding.

General Spalding is a former White House National Security Council Senior Director for strategic planning. He served in senior positions of strategy and diplomacy within the Defense and State Departments for more than 25 years. His innovation, while serving in the White House, has led to a reset in national security and public policy regarding telecommunications in the United States and globally. He's also the author of two books, "Stealth War: How China Took Over While America's Elite Slept", which came out in 2019, and "War Without Rules: China's Playbook for Global Domination", which came out this year. Get ready, because you're about to understand why the innovation race is on and how we have to win it if America is to survive and prosper.

1. The U.S. Patent System is Designed for Individuals And is A Key Component to American Exceptionalism.

The patent system was a part of our nation's founding. It was an integral part of what made America exceptional. It was purposely placed in the Constitution.

- » The first patent law was signed by George Washington.
- » It said "HE or SHE or THEY" can invent things and they'd be protected.
- » It was designed to protect the individual; it was not designed for the science societies of groupthink.

A patent designed for individuals was the genius of our Founders. They Recognized the Problems with Groupthink Science Societies.

Case Study - Groupthink Science Societies Can Destroy True Innovation:

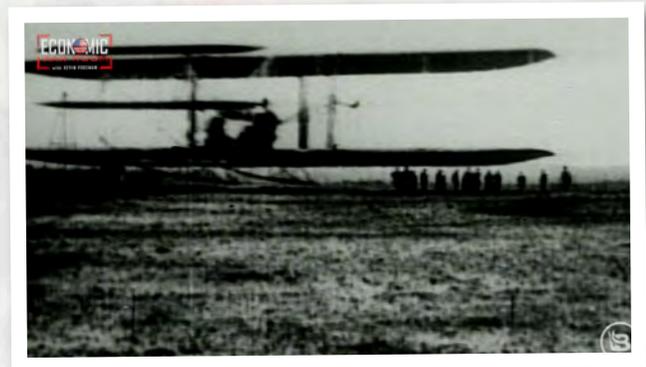

The New York Times predicted it, so it must be fact.

They wrote that manned flight would take between one and 10 million years to achieve in their article titled, "Flying Machines Which Do Not Fly".

The article ended, saying to the ordinary man, "It would seem as if an effort might be employed more profitably." In other words, focus your attention elsewhere.

Forget the Groupthink Societies and the New York Times. The Wright Brothers Had a Different and Better Idea:

- » Nine weeks later, the Wright Brothers achieved manned flight.
- » That's what happens when you have individuals rather than groupthink.
- » Our original patent system was designed for individuals.

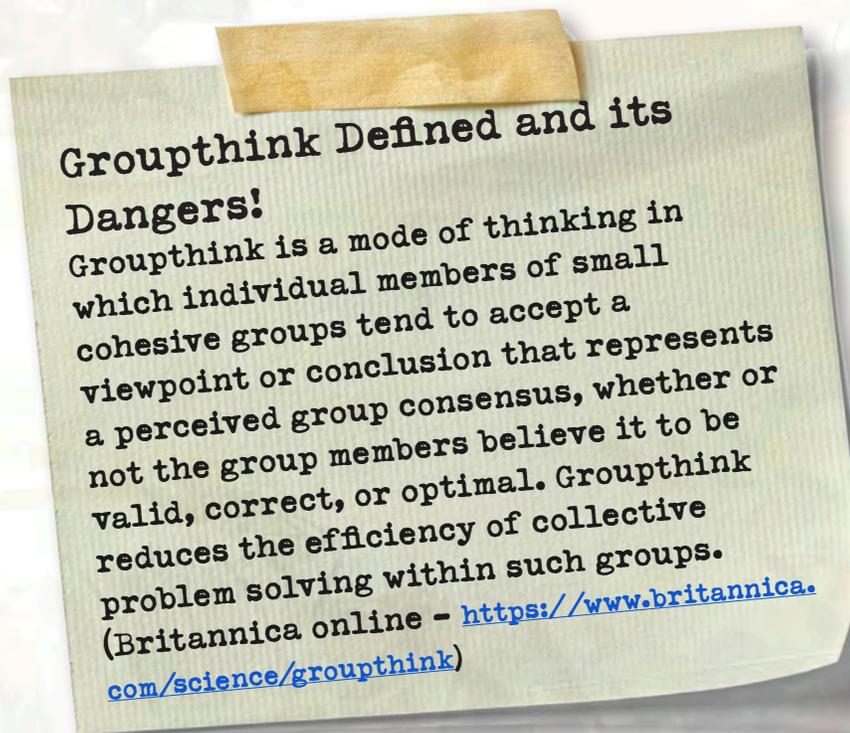

WARNING: Today there are two powerful groups that have taken down our once superior patent system. They're the globalist tech companies, which include:

- » The World Economic Forum, and
- » The Chinese Communist Party

The attack on our patent system is blatant economic warfare with huge and dangerous implications. Be sure to catch the movie "Innovation Race" which exposes the threat and offers a plan to address it.

WARNING: "We need individual liberty otherwise we're going to face the tyranny of the technocratic elite. Groupthink nearly destroyed us in COVID when you weren't allowed to even question the consensus. Groupthink is what's driving the Green New Deal; "all the scientists" agree. Now, even our patent system is aimed at defeating our individual liberty." —Kevin Freeman

2. China is Aggressively Trying to Take Over the U.S. Patent System.

General Spalding lived and studied in China and has a deep understanding of the Chinese mindset.

- » It makes sense that China would try to emulate our patent system in a way that accrued some advantage to them and the Chinese Communist Party.
- » They've done this in terms of international standards in telecommunications and other industries to ensure it works to their advantage.

“They [China] see the patent system in the United States – our innovation, our enormous amount of standards and technology ... amassed over its history – as one of the things that they wanted to overcome. And I think they’ve been pretty successful at doing it.” —Robert Spalding

“They [China] see the patent system in the United States – our innovation, our enormous amount of standards and technology ... amassed over its history – as one of the things that they wanted to overcome. And I think they’ve been pretty successful at doing it.” —Robert Spalding

ALERT: Because of our ineptitude with the American Invents Act, the effectiveness of our patent system has been watered down and China is taking advantage of it.

“This is a huge problem for the United States because technology has been and continues to be the thing that really separates us from China. The recent Chips Agreement or ACT, and the efforts on behalf of the Biden administration to stop the Chinese ability to develop semiconductors, I think is just another example.” —Robert Spalding

CASE STUDY - China’s Intellectual Property Theft

China Lobbyists Worked Hard to Influence the US patent System.

Kevin Freeman’s Experience in DC.

In 2011, Kevin was briefing Congressman Frank Wolf about economic warfare. He noticed a lot of lobbyists and asked about them. Congressman Wolf said,

“Oh, those are Chinese lobbyists attempting to get us to change our patent system, to water it down.”

“That’s just another example of what we say all the time in the Economic War Room: ‘What we see as a marketplace our enemies view as a battle space.’ And China did it in 2011. They weakened our patent system.” —Kevin Freeman

General Spalding Shares His Observations on How the CCP Worked to Steal US Intellectual Property:

When I was in the Pentagon, it was the first time I became aware that the Chinese were basically stealing intellectual property from the United States directly from servers where research and development had been uploaded.

- » They would take patent filings that hadn’t been sent to the patent office. They would take those filings verbatim and would file a patent in China.
- » Later when that company went to file their patents, they found out we had missed the boat because these patents had already been filed verbatim in China.
- » So ‘first to file’ versus ‘first to invent’ – there are a number of challenges that the Chinese have taken advantage of.

Patents in our Constitution have been a protected space from the very beginning of our country. And it’s one of the reasons that we’ve been able to be so innovative.

ATTENTION: The American Invents Act diluted those protections, and the Chinese Communist Party has taken advantage of that watering down to strengthen their control over intellectual property.

3. According to General Spalding, We're at War with China. We Don't Realize it and China Does.

“What we see as a marketplace, our enemy views as a battlespace.”

The first Cold War wasn't a military war; it was primarily an economic war, a war of ideology. It was a war that demonstrated the power of a free people over a power of an oppressed people.

Today, we're in a second Cold War with China, but many in the US are unaware or do not care.

In many ways, China has the advantages that we had during the first Cold War.

- » They own the supply chain.
- » They have become experts at so many of the foundational technologies of the 21st century, like artificial intelligence and quantum.

The challenges we must overcome are serious.

WARNING: We're in a war much like the first Cold War, except we are now number two.

- » We are the Soviet Union.
- » Even though we have a free society, the chinks in the armor have come because of things like the American Invents Act.
- » Our corporate sector and financial sector essentially move to the sway of the Chinese Communist Party today in ways that are counter to our own interests.

“It's not a military challenge like I trained for, for 30 years in the Air Force. It's an economic challenge. It's an economic war, it's a financial war, it's a technological war. It's a psychological war.” —Robert Spalding

COVID demonstrated the power of the Chinese Communist Party.

- » They not only implemented policies in the international space, but also in free countries like America.
 - Lockdowns was a good example of a policy derived in China in Wuhan in January of 2020 and then exported to the rest of the world.

4. China has Changed Dramatically Over the Last 20 Years and Not for Liberty.

General Spalding shares what life was like living in China for the Air Force and the political transformation in just a short time.

The first time I lived there [in China] was 2002 to 2004, and they had just entered the World Trade Organization (WTO).

- » I learned at the time was that China was very open and it was an exciting place to be.
- » In fact, I wanted to go back after I retired from the Air Force and be a part of it.

The second time I went, December 5th, 2016, when I got to the country to be the senior defense official, I found a completely transformed China.

- » One that was oppressive and closed down. Now you go back to Deng Xiaoping and the “hide and bide” strategy.
- » The fact that it’s so authoritarian now shouldn’t be a surprise to anybody.
- » The Chinese Communist Party basically said this is who we are. But then, of course, we’re going to take as much as we can from the free world to build our strength.

5. What We Should be Doing to Win the Innovation Race and Preserve Liberty Around the World?

Stopping the American Invents Act is critical!

“If we want to win this race, not only do we have to fix the patent system, we must also get rid of the American Invents Act. We must begin to invest in science and technology again.” —Robert Spalding

During the first Cold War, America was spending 2% of its GDP on research and development in places like Silicon Valley and Boston, tech centers of the United States. We invested in science and technology.

Today America is not investing research and technology, instead it's the Chinese Communist Party. They're investing in technology.

Our scientist are going to China because that is where the money is:

- » American scientists are going to China and helping the Chinese because we don't have the same type of money being invested here.
 - Our scientists want to go where the data is.
 - The way you collect data is by conducting experiments, and these experiments cost money and its now the Chinese that are investing their money in it.
 - It ultimately becomes our dollars because they take it from us.

ATTENTION: We must invest in science and technology like we've never done before if we want to be successful in the innovation race and preserve liberty around the world.

America has a mass income disparity where the wealthy get wealthier, and the poor get poorer.

- » One important solution for that is to share the opportunity for ownership and the ability to innovate broadly in a free market society.
- » We need to encourage innovation.
- » We need to encourage investment in research and technology that strengthens America's national security and economic infrastructure.
- » To do that we must educate American investors, to invest in things that promote liberty, security, and values.

We're training financial advisors at Liberty University. We're going to equip 10,000 of advisors. If we achieve that, we'll have a trillion dollars of patriotic capital to invest in things that will make America strong again so we can export liberty rather than import tyranny. –Kevin Freeman

6. A Proven Solution to Protecting America's Sovereignty and Winning the Innovation Race.

The SEMPRE project: - SEMPRE stands for Secure EMP Resistant Edge. General Spalding is CEO of SEMPRE

Information technology and Communications are critical to securing our data, protecting intellectual property and our national security.

SEMPRE stems from a project General Spalding was working on in the Air Force before he retired. (He asked the leadership to let him leave and take it into the private sector.)

- » It involves securing 5G networks.
- » Data and critical infrastructure are so important to protecting America's sovereignty, particularly our digital sovereignty.

WARNING: We must regain sovereignty over our data, because the Chinese have enormous power over collecting data today and using it for their own ends.

A summary of the SEMPRE technology and what they are doing.

- » Protecting our Communications from an EMP - One of the things that we wanted to do was protect our telecommunications infrastructure from things like an EMP blast (electromagnetic pulse), which comes from a high-altitude nuclear weapon or could come from a solar flare.
- » 5G Communications at Risk - What the team found was 5G, was entirely in software, previously bespoke hardware, is written in code opening new opportunities for security.
 - They found very hardened infrastructure nodes could be created from that and produce all the capacity to protect data, but also protect critical infrastructure.

Why this is important:

- If you look at what happened in Florida with the hurricanes, for example, when our networks went down, it often takes weeks or months to get them back up.
- The AT&T bombing two Christmases ago in Nashville took down Tennessee and surrounding states for up to two weeks. They had perfectly operational cell towers that were just dumb because they had no connection to the brains.

SEMPRE created hardened cell towers that have the full data center and full connection to the smarts that allow them to continue to operate, even if we have an EMP or natural disaster.

7. SEMPRE is About Building, Owning, and Operating Infrastructure that Supports Critical Infrastructure in the United States.

- » Their products and services will protect the military, protect first responders, protect financial institutions, and all of those things that are needed to continue to run – even if we have a natural disaster or some kind of attack.

Read the book “One Second After” to understand the danger of an EMP to the United States and what would happen to civil society. Hurricane Katrina was a good example. What happens when communication goes down, civil society breaks down and we have lawlessness.

There is good news: SEMPRE has been at it for four years and is ready to start deploying infrastructure.

SEMPRE’s first commercial agreement is with a company in the middle of America called Viaero Wireless. It’s one of the largest regional carriers, if not the largest regional care in America.

- » CAUTION: Because of the economics of what’s been happening over the last three decades, Viaero Wireless had a network completely full of Huawei gear.
- » SEMPRE is going to help them take the Huawei gear out.

Unfortunately, Huawei is in our Intercontinental Ballistic Missile Fields (ICBM fields). And from the Chinese perspective, that's very smart to get their infrastructure in our ICBM fields.

- SEMPRE is going to help Viaero Wireless clean that up and make it one of the strongest, most secure, and robust networks in the world.

SEMPRE's goal is to continue to deploy infrastructure throughout the United States. Not only will communities be protected, but also first responders and military bases.

- » They're not going to replace all the infrastructure in the United States. The idea is to replace or augment those areas where we want to have connectivity.

The investments that SEMPRE is taking on will allow them to begin deploying this infrastructure throughout the United States and continue to innovate.

- » SEMPRE is miniaturizing the entire subcomponentry of the nodes so that they are the most evolved, advanced infrastructure nodes in the world.
- » Because they're miniaturized, the power draw is going to decline quite extensively, which means the nodes will be able to run on batteries that last for years and/or on solar power.
- » It's in the sustainable capability that secures SEMPRE's future.

Although Economic War Room doesn't recommend investments, we do train financial advisors so they can examine and look at them. To learn more about SEMPRE go to: <https://sempre.ai/>.

NOTE: You can follow General Spalding on Twitter https://twitter.com/robert_spalding. General Spalding is focused on protecting our data, critical infrastructure, and our country's sovereignty. He's also on LinkedIn (<https://www.linkedin.com/in/rspalding/>) and is happy to engage anyone who's interested in either becoming a customer or an investor of SEMPRE. Economic War Room thanks General Spalding for his continued service on behalf of the American people. He is fighting the innovation race, not just explaining it in a movie, but also fighting it on the ground.

Why Should You Care?

- » America's superior patent system is being attacked by big science and China.
- » The U.S. Patent System is designed for individuals, not science societies.
- » Big Science in the US is trying to shift power to themselves and not the individual as our founder's originally framed it in the constitution.
- » China is aggressively trying to take over the U.S. patent system.
- » Technology has been and continues to be the thing that really separates us from China.
- » We're at war with China, but we don't realize it and China does.
- » We CAN win the innovation race while preserving America's sovereignty and liberty around the world.
