Workplace Giving

What Is Workplace Giving?

Employees can make small, regular donations to the Edmund Rice Centre through their pre-tax pay. Donations are deducted from your pre-tax salary, which reduces your taxable income and the amount of tax you pay each year.

What are the benefits?

A workplace giving program is easy for employers to set up and provides many benefits for both companies and employees while supporting a great cause. Workplace giving reduces your salary for taxation purposes and as you are making your donation pre-tax, there is no need to keep or present receipts at tax time.

Workplace giving programs are also a great way for employers to show their commitment to social justice and human rights.

Workplace giving greatly reduces the Edmund Rice Centre's administration costs. Therefore, more money reaches the people who need it most!

How to set up workplace giving

1. Ask your employer to include the Edmund Rice Centre in their workplace giving program;
2. Complete the form overleaf and give it to your payroll manager; and
3. Your donation will be deducted from your salary each pay period.
