Is the “Green Audit” the right tool for my place of faith?

Start

Do we have funding and leadership/congregational support for green audit?

Yes

Do we have a team or task group that will guide and follow up with this process?

Yes

Form audit team/task group

No

Explore way to obtain funding and support

No

Explore way to obtain funding and support

Yes

Is the “Green Audit” the right tool for my place of faith?

Yes

No

Regional Incentives & Rebates
Explore opportunities for regional incentives and rebates. Financial support may range from system retrofits to replacement of old appliances.

Some program have specific requirements for auditors.

Major Renovations
If your faith building is planning major renovations in the next 12 months, you most likely require an energy audit instead. Seek the support of qualified consultants in your area.

Don’t forget to explore opportunities for regional incentives/rebates.

Internal Expertise
If there are engineering or building management expertise in your faith group, you can choose your do your own walk-through audit using our free - Practical Guide to Improving Energy Efficiency in your Religious Building

Don’t forget to explore opportunities for regional incentives/rebates.

Green Audit
A Green Audit offers a holistic review and fresh look at your place of faith, including signage, usage of space, appliances, worship needs, heat leakages, water usage, and outdoor green space.

If you feel that a Green Audit will be of added value to support your faith group’s commitments to creation care, please contact Stephen Collette at 705-652-5159 or scollette@faithcommongood.org to learn more.

There are many provincial and municipal incentive/rebate programs. Ask your local utility providers, and search via http://www.nrcan.gc.ca/energy/funding/efficiency/4947