

CURTIN STAYS INDEPENDENT

May 2025 Newsletter

Thank You

TO: Curtin

FROM: Kate

Hello,

Well, it has been a very big month in Federal politics!

Thank you to everyone who contributed to the electoral process, as volunteers or donors for me or another candidate, as AEC workers or helping out at a sausage sizzle for a primary school on election day.

No matter what you think about the candidates or the endless corflutes and attack flyers, the fundamentals of our democracy are solid and it's worth remembering we can't take that for granted.

Here in Curtin, less than 24 hours after the polls closed, it was confirmed that Curtin would remain independent, with a larger margin than in 2022. Thank you to everyone who voted for me. Irrespective of how you voted, I will do my very best to represent all constituents over the next three years.

To make sure your voice is heard and stay informed, please come to our events or keep in touch via social media.

Please get in touch if you need assistance with Centrelink, NDIS, Immigration, Aged Care, ATO, Medicare, and other matters. Send us an email or drop into my electorate office, which is still located on the corner of The Boulevard and Floreat Ave.

It's with a heavy heart that we remember and acknowledge that last Saturday marked one year since Jennifer and Gretl Petelczyc were shot dead in Floreat - victims of domestic violence.

Since then, I've been part of a Federal inquiry into how family law and family violence protections must work together better to keep women safe.

Change is coming, but not fast enough. We remember them. Our community still feels their loss.

North West Shelf Approval Exposes Broken Environmental Laws

Independent Member for Curtin, Kate Chaney MP, says the conditional approval of the North West Shelf gas extension exposes Australia's outdated environmental laws and their failure to consider the climate impacts of major fossil fuel projects.

National Reconciliation Week

(Tremane Baxter-Edwards on the right)

National Reconciliation Week falls from 27 May to 3 June every year and is a reminder that this is a time for growth, reflection, and commitment to walking together to a reconciled future.

This year's theme is "Bridging Now to Next", calling all Australians to step forward together, to look ahead and continue to push forward as past lessons guide us.

At the National Reconciliation Week Breakfast, it was inspiring to hear 18-year-old Tremane Baxter-Edwards, WA's First Nations youth leader, speak. Young leaders like Tremane give me hope for the future. Reconciliation is a year-long effort, and I will continue to strive and advocate for a reconciled future.

After a fairly grueling election campaign and a few weeks planning for the next term, I will be having a holiday in June. Parliament goes back in late July so we will start our monthly community catch-ups/Canberra debriefs then.
