

Diane Sare Is Running for U.S. President!

The LaRouche Organization is endorsing her campaign

The LaRouche Organization is thrilled to announce that Diane Sare, a long-time leader in the LaRouche movement, has announced that she is running to be the next U.S. president! The LaRouche Organization endorses her campaign, which she says is “not to provide leadership in some distant era in January of ’29, but to give the American people a voice and a pathway to secure the policies that are urgently needed now.”

We encourage you to follow her on X and to read her campaign announcement, which opens by addressing the kidnapping of Nicolas Maduro from Venezuela.

“Let me state unequivocally that everything about this action stands in violation of international law, the U.N. Charter, and, crucially for the American people, in violation of our own U.S. Constitution,” Sare says.

“Unless our nation dramatically changes course and returns to the principles expressed by John Quincy Adams in his July 4, 1821, Address to the Congress, we and our republic shall cease to exist in recognizable form well before the July 4, 2026, 250th anniversary of our Declaration of Independence.”

“Rather than declaring prosperous nations to be our competitors or even our adversaries, let us work with them for the benefit of mankind as a whole, which includes the American people, who are burdened rather than benefited by our futile attempts to prevent the progress of other nations,” she says. “It is to this end that I declare my independent candidacy for President of the United States, not to provide leadership in some distant era in January of ’29, but to give the American people a voice and a pathway to secure the policies that are urgently needed now.”

Diane held a meeting on January 10th in New York City to launch her campaign (see below).

The LaRouche Organization endorses Diane Sare’s campaign for U.S. president, and we wish her success in her efforts to implement Lyndon LaRouche’s vision for the United States!
