

Why You Should Read the Police Dossier: “It Is the British Who Murder Our Presidents”

The air is thick with murderous incitements against President Trump. Awake citizens have this thought: If none of their lawfare works --as it appears not to work at all, and only bolsters his support--assassination must be what these true insurrectionists will try next. That's what we have heard over and over recently from worried Americans fearing a national cataclysm or worse.

Cowards, like Vivek Ramaswamy, claim that “they” will never let Trump into the White House, that Trump is “wounded,” and therefore Vivek or someone else must now replace him in this fight. You can just hear the donation-page on his website open its arms to the wealthy billionaires who love such cowardly opportunists. As if Vivek, or anyone else actually committing to Trump's America First, nationalist policies to dismantle the police state and the Fed-Wall Street-Defense-Intelligence racket, and to rebuild our industrial and manufacturing economy on an American System basis -- not just speechifying about these goals -- would be immune from similar attacks or threats. Ditto for RFK, Jr., a billionaire-financed and British intelligence-managed decoy, deployed to split anti-vaxers from Trump.

We have written a pamphlet about the British imperial authors of three previous assassinations of American presidents—McKinley, Lincoln, and Kennedy. It is also about the British imperial targeting of Trump from 2015 forward. Most importantly, we locate why these American presidents were targeted. It was not because of what they had done -- although their policies were similar in intent to Trump's. It was what they had shown the potential to do, with respect to disrupting British geopolitical designs and schemes. In 2018, having failed to indict Trump in the three-year Russiagate hoax they orchestrated, the British House of Lords instructed that he must not have a second term under any circumstances. When they toured Washington for their report, they were assured that both the Congress and the intelligence and defense establishments would follow their lead.

Now, as in every previous British-authored political assassination, the world sits at a crossroads. If the modern British financial empire and their assassins succeed, the world will enter a New Dark Age of wars and mass poverty, overseen by a massive surveillance and social control apparatus -- at best. At worst, we will perish in a nuclear conflagration. If, on the other hand, we build the MAGA movement beyond its present base, win the election overwhelmingly, and implement the policies President Trump has campaigned on, then America, with a mission to build a prosperous future for all, without foreign wars, will emerge like a modern Phoenix from the ruins of the last decades.

You stop assassins by exposing those who control them. By naming the names of those in high places who are the authors of these murderous schemes If they know that, should anything happen to their target, an informed and aroused public will be demanding their own heads -- this exposure can turn would-be murderers into the most fervent protectors of their former target. Our pamphlet starts that necessary exposure. You can view it using codes below.. Your donations (lpac.co/donate) will help us secure the widest social media distribution.
