

Plain Text Manifesto

The background is pastel yellow and the top of the page reads "Aaminah Saleem" in purple text followed underneath by the text "For Racial Equity, Diversity and Liberation Officer".

Under this, there is a photo of Aaminah on the left of the page and on the right text reading "About me" and then text which states "I am a fourth year Politics and IR student at the University of Birmingham. And I absolutely adore TAYLOR SWIFT!".

Under the photo, there is a section detailing "Experience" and below reads in bullet points

- Current Chair of UBLD.
- Elected Campaigns Officer of UoB.
- Diversity Officer WiP & PolSoc, UoB.
- Former UBLD Events Officer.
- Former WiP President where I quadrupled membership of the society & won the Diversity, Inclusion and Wellbeing Award.
- Campaigned for UoB's politics department to offer more diverse modules including ones on the British Empire"

To the right of "Experience" there is a heading stating "Why am I standing" and underneath reads "We need to do more and better for our members of colour. I am standing because I've often felt different and always felt as if there wasn't anyone like me in politics. Members of colour are underrepresented in the party, and I want to draw on my extensive experience and proven track record to rectify that".

Below the "Why am I standing" and "Experience" section, there is a section titled "What will I do?" and underneath reads

"Work with LDCRE to develop a strategy to engage with members

Establish a close relationship with the ADS Officer to ensure inclusion is at the heart of what YL does Draw upon my extensive experience engaging members from previous positions to represent and support members of colour".
