

Plain text manifesto:

Abigail Bowden for Women's Rep

- I'm 19, I grew up in South London and I'm currently studying Politics and Modern History at the University of Manchester.
- Within YL, I've been on Policy Committee for the last year and a half and have served as the London Vice Chair for the past year.
- Gender equality across politics is not good enough, and getting involved in politics for women comes with many more barriers. I want to be an approachable face within YL for women to come to with concerns, as well as someone who can help encourage women to get more involved.

In addition to assisting the Accessibility, Diversity, and Standards Officer, I would promote gender equality by:

- working with the Policy Officer
 - to encourage women to submit policy through training
 - to continue the precedent of no man-man 'chairing pairings'
- working with the Events Officer
 - to ensure a gender balance of speakers at conference
 - to create an inclusive space
- working with the Communications Officer
 - to create resources about women in politics
 - to notify about any events for women
