

Oregon Physicians for Social Responsibility

Dear Anna,

Oregon PSR Disaster Resilience and Health Training Series

As the climate crisis continues to escalate it is important that we build resilient communities and networks. An essential aspect of resilient communities is health, and learning how to take care of ourselves and each other. Join us for our upcoming series where we explore disaster resilience and health. We will explore topics such as extreme heat, wildfires and equity, and ways to make our homes and spaces more resilient.
