Canada's wealthiest families have as much wealth as everyone in Newfoundland and Labrador, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island combined.

$41.2 Billion

Profits made by the six biggest banks in Canada during the pandemic – while continuing to charge high interest rates to people struggling to pay their bills.

$200 Billion

Amazon's Jeff Bezos became the first person ever to amass a net worth of over $200 billion – a profit of $87 billion during the pandemic – while Amazon pays no tax in Canada.

Your family shouldn't pay for the COVID-19 recovery, the ultra-rich should.

What do you think should be done to make the ultra rich pay their fair share?

- Implementing a 1% wealth tax on fortunes over $20 million
- Cracking down on tax havens and closing tax loopholes where the ultra-rich hide their money
- Making web giants pay taxes in Canada
- Introducing a tax on excess profits large corporations made during the pandemic

THOSE WHO PROFITED FROM THIS PANDEMIC SHOULD PAY FOR THE RECOVERY, NOT YOUR FAMILY.

COVID-19 has been devastating for families and small businesses who have struggled to get by and pay their bills.

Meanwhile, the ultra rich don't pay their fair share & take the biggest share of the pie. Some wealthy corporations are making record profits because of the pandemic. Successive Liberal and Conservative governments have let the wealthiest avoid paying their fair share of taxes by hiding billions of dollars offshore every year.

New Democrats have the courage to demand that wealthy businesses and families pay their fair share of taxes so we can better deliver help to people who really need it.
