

Sare for Senate Launches a National Campaign for Peace on Earth

November 19, 2023—Billions of people across the globe are watching in horror and spiritual agony as the British and American-backed Bibi Netanyahu regime moves to eliminate up to 2.3 million Palestinian people in Gaza. Millions have demonstrated in the streets from London to Washington to Istanbul demanding a halt to the killing of innocents, including over 5,000 children as of this writing.

The question is not only how do we stop this senseless slaughter, but how do we lift mankind to a new level where violence against other human beings becomes a thing of the past?

The United States, which declared the first successful anti-colonial revolution against the British Empire in 1776, has a crucial role to play in bringing a new paradigm into existence. But 60 years after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, we have lost our way. In fact, the capitulation of the American people to the Warren Commission cover-up and everything which followed it, including the jailing of America's most qualified presidential candidate, Lyndon LaRouche, has had its intended result: we have become the new British Empire on nuclear steroids capable of annihilating the entire planet, where, given the mentally frail but vicious condition of our current "president," sane leaders of the world are gingerly walking on eggshells trying to avoid triggering the end of us all.

They hope, and Americans hope, that the 2024 Federal Elections, where one-third of the U.S. Senate, the entire House of Representatives, and the Presidency are all up for a long-overdue replacement, could be a great cleansing, perhaps like a giant toilet flushing, where an entirely new leadership might come in to save the day.

We find ourselves facing the greatest opportunity of our lifetimes where the rotten imperialist system based in the City of London and Wall Street is nearing its desperate end, and a new system which upholds the inalienable rights of Man and the perfect sovereignty of each nation can become the new order of the planet. But our own beloved republic, which should embody these principles, has instead become the enforcer of everything all free people abhor.

Tragically, although former President Donald Trump and Robert F. Kennedy, Jr. are both viewed as threatening enough to the dying order of the "Great Reset" crew that they are being harassed with lawsuits, as in the case of Trump, or induced to destroy themselves, as Kennedy has done with his implicit support for the genocide in Gaza, neither of them has demonstrated the quality of leadership needed for this moment, and anyone who would, as Lyndon LaRouche did, will not be allowed remotely near the presidency.

Therefore, my campaign for U.S. Senate from New York will now become a nationwide effort with the rapid recruitment of organizing committees in each state dedicated not merely to my election as a United States Senator from New York and the delightful uproar that would ensue as a result, but to working with me to ensure that the entire program of Lyndon LaRouche is adopted as policy by the United States Government.

For those not familiar, this means the immediate reinstatement of the FDR-era Glass-Steagall Act (and the bankrupting and prosecution of the banksters who made this mess), followed by the replacement of the Federal Reserve with a National Bank which would fund urgently needed great projects to increase the productivity of the American workforce, augmented by a crash program to develop a fusion-powered economy. All of this would most efficiently be done in concert with other nations including China, currently the most productive nation on the planet, as well as Russia, and many others. We must adhere to former Secretary of State and President John Quincy Adams' admonition to not go abroad in "search of monsters to destroy," but to come together, as John F. Kennedy proposed, to advance the "freedom of man."

What better state from which to launch such a campaign than the great State of New York, where our first President, George Washington, was inaugurated, and from whence Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and John Jay issued the Federalist Papers, laying the basis for our Constitution?

My campaign is dedicated to unifying our nation from New York and making her a trusted partner in the new paradigm already underway, as the BRICS-plus process indicates. We shall restore the great Island of Manhattan from the stinking cesspool of degeneracy and financial dictatorship typified by former clients of the late Jeffrey Epstein, to a gleaming "City on the Hill" of commerce, culture, and a dialogue of civilizations of which Americans can be proud. Can you imagine that?
