

A Voice of Reason Is Needed from the United States: I, Diane Sare, Hereby Announce My Candidacy in the 2024 New York U.S. Senate Race

Nov. 15, 2022—Nuclear war and economic Armageddon remain the only relevant issues facing the people of the United States and the world, and very few, if any, of our “elected” representatives are addressing either of these life-and-death matters, so I hereby announce my intention to challenge incumbent U.S. Senator from New York Kirsten Gillibrand in the November 2024 general election.

In a recent exchange with Senator Gillibrand, I told her that I was still awaiting a response to my and former UN weapons inspector Scot Ritter’s inquiries about her and Schumer’s repeated votes to send billions of dollars to a Nazi-infested regime in Ukraine, which had placed two of her constituents, myself and Ritter, on a hitlist, put out by the Ukrainian “Center for Countering Disinformation.” She lied and claimed that the list “Isn’t what you think it is,” and was actually “Russian disinformation.” She then made the ludicrous proposal that if I felt threatened, I should contact the FBI, as if the FBI doesn’t have a long history of maliciously targeting political leaders.

Therefore, she has made herself worthy of expulsion from the United States Senate.

On September 26, while campaigning to unseat Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer, I released a statement, “Is the Suppression of LaRouche Candidate Diane Sare a Prelude to Nuclear War?” After my exclusion from the October 30 New York Senate candidates’ debate, after over 50% of my votes mysteriously disappeared overnight from November 8 to November 9, and as the war in Ukraine now includes American boots on the ground and may be spreading to Poland, the answer to that question is definitely yes.

Yes, the attempt to silence my voice, while amplifying the voice of the warmonger from Wall Street, Chuck Schumer, was a prelude to nuclear war, and each day seemingly brings us nearer the brink.

Preventing the annihilation of the human race in the near term is therefore the number-one issue in this campaign. In order to effectively stop this, one must have the courage of the American statesman Lyndon LaRouche, who dared to say decades ago that the trans-Atlantic system was economically and morally bankrupt and had to be replaced with a new paradigm of relations among sovereign nations which respects the security of each nation equally.

Who decided that Russia and China are the enemies of the United States, rather than the United Kingdom, or any other nation? Why must we have enemies in the first place?

Our planet is very small in the universal realm, and the beautiful images from the Webb Telescope now inform us that there are literally trillions of potentially inhabitable bodies awaiting our arrival. Why do we tolerate those who wish to immiserate and divide us for their own evil gains? With the looming shortages of food, fuel, and energy, and the threat of thermonuclear war, we cannot continue to tolerate the insanity of the so-called “leaders” of the Western world.

The 2022 campaign against Schumer was only the beginning, and we scared the pants off our enemies (an ugly sight) to such a degree that they literally tried to erase me. The enemies of mankind will be most unhappy about this announcement, so let’s enjoy making them miserable as we muster the forces to finally defeat them!
