Dominion Energy Charitable Foundation Invests $10,000 to Power Green Career Week in Virginia

Alexandria, VA– March 10, 2026 – Seed Your Future, a national nonprofit dedicated to promoting horticulture careers, is proud to announce it has received a $10,000 grant from the Dominion Energy Charitable Foundation to support the expansion of Green Career Week in Virginia during Spring 2026.

The grant aims to help Seed Your Future connect more than 1,000 Virginia students with careers at the intersection of horticulture, conservation, and energy, providing hands-on exposure to local employers and professionals working with plants in innovative and impactful ways.

Powering Your Every Day.

Green Career Week is a national, bi-annual initiative that brings classrooms and workplaces together through facility tours, classroom presentations, and virtual career experiences. Since launching in 2022, the program has engaged more than 15,000 students and 200 employers nationwide. The Virginia-focused expansion will deepen connections between schools, horticulture businesses, and energy sector professionals across the Commonwealth.

“For students who care about the environment and their communities, it’s powerful to see how plant-based careers intersect with energy, sustainability, and local impact,” said Jazmin Albarran, Executive Director of Seed Your Future. “We are grateful to the Dominion Energy

Charitable Foundation for investing in career awareness opportunities that help students envision meaningful, future-focused pathways.”

Support from the Dominion Energy Charitable Foundation will fund targeted outreach to Virginia educators and employers, coordination of volunteer engagement, development of educational resources highlighting energy-related plant careers, and enhanced program evaluation. Dominion Energy employees will also have opportunities to participate as volunteers, sharing real-world insights into careers connected to vegetation management, energy-efficient agricultural practices, and environmental stewardship.

“By supporting Green Career Week, we’re helping students understand the vital role they play in our communities and our energy future,” said Hunter A. Applewhite, President of the Dominion Energy Charitable Foundation. “This partnership reflects our commitment to education, workforce development, and environmental stewardship in the communities we serve.”

Virginia Green Career Week will take place in Spring 2026.
