

Stephen Richmond

What I'd like for the SLF's future:

I am immensely proud of what SLF has achieved so far and the projects we've been doing recently. As we move closer to the next election I believe the next council term should focus on preparing to try and influence the next government. That should be done through a raft of small policy positions we can get consensus on, for example around the environment, housing and community, and then add on some big aims like UBI and ensuring "never again" on austerity.

What I've been up to:

I've been involved in SLF since 2015 as a staff member and on council and I am proud to have fought hard for members interests, including helping to pass a motion at the last AGM to ensure members concerns are always heard.