The State of South Carolina: In general, are you satisfied or dissatisfied with the way things are going in:	8
Do you approve or disapprove of the way the South Carolina State Legislature is handling its job?	9
South Carolina lawmakers are considering a proposal that would eventually eliminate the state income tax. Supporters argue this would make the state more competitive and allow residents to keep more of what they earn, while critics worry the state could have less revenue available in the future. Do you support or oppose eliminating South Carolina’s state income tax entirely over the next several years?	10
If South Carolina reforms its tax system, do you think tax reform should be accompanied by some form of spending reform to ensure fiscal responsibility?	11
Some lawmakers propose limiting annual growth in state general fund spending to no more than population growth plus inflation from the previous year, unless overridden by a supermajority vote of the legislature. Do you support or oppose a state law adopting this type of spending limit?	12
Over the past 10 years, South Carolina’s general fund appropriations have nearly doubled. In your opinion, have the services you receive from the state government—such as roads, education, and public services—doubled in quality?	13
Overall, how satisfied are you with the quality of K–12 public education in South Carolina?	14
A proposed Senate bill (S.537) would prohibit public schools from adopting mandatory grading floors, which require teachers to assign minimum grades (such as 50 or 60 out of 100) for incomplete or low-quality work, and would require zeros for assignments not submitted. Supporters argue this improves academic rigor and accountability, while critics say it could discourage struggling students. Do you support or oppose a state law prohibiting mandatory grading floors in public schools?	15
How important is it to you that South Carolina parents have the right to review school curricula, access their child’s educational records, and choose between public, private, or homeschool options without state interference?	16
Which of the following is your biggest concern about South Carolina public schools? [ROTATE]	17
Do you agree or disagree with issuing laptops or digital devices to students in South Carolina public schools for educational purposes?	18
Last year, Governor Henry McMaster issued an executive order requiring state agencies to disclose lawmakers’ funding requests and post detailed spending information online. Supporters say this improves transparency, while critics argue existing laws are sufficient. Do you support or oppose making these transparency requirements permanent through state law?	19

South Carolina law requires state agencies to use zero-based budgeting, meaning agencies are supposed to regularly justify all of their spending from scratch, rather than simply building on last year's budget. Do you think the governor should enforce the existing law and require full implementation of zero-based budgeting?	20
In South Carolina, judges are screened by the Judicial Merit Selection Commission (JMSC) before being elected by the General Assembly. Some argue this system creates conflicts of interest, while others say it preserves legislative oversight. Do you support or oppose changing South Carolina's current system for selecting judges?	21
Which of the following methods for selecting judges do you prefer? [ROTATE]	22
Under current law, in a case with multiple defendants, an individual defendant in a lawsuit can sometimes be held responsible for all damages, even if they were only partly at fault. A 2025 law reduced this practice for the hospitality industry. Supporters say continuing reform would make the system fairer, while critics argue it could limit compensation for victims. Do you support or oppose continuing to reform South Carolina's liability laws, so defendants are responsible only for damages equal to their percentage of fault?	23
Should a bar or restaurant be legally responsible for damages caused by someone who was not visibly intoxicated when they were served alcohol?	24
Which approach do you think South Carolina should take when it comes to energy use by large data centers? [ROTATE]	25
Large data centers require massive and long-term electricity supplies, often driving the need for new power plants or major grid upgrades. If data centers continue to be served by state-regulated utilities, some propose requiring them to enter into long-term power purchase agreements so they help pay for the power generation needed to serve them. Do you support or oppose requiring data centers to enter into these power purchase agreements?	26
The failed V.C. Summer nuclear project led to higher electricity bills for many South Carolina residents. If utilities are reviving V.C. Summer primarily to serve data centers, do you think the utility providers should be required to help offset electricity costs for residential customers?	27
Between 2013 and 2023, the South Carolina Department of Transportation's budget nearly doubled. According to the Federal Highway Administration, road conditions have declined, while others say increased funding is still necessary. Should the state continue increasing DOT funding without first implementing structural reforms to better understand how transportation dollars are being spent?	28
In South Carolina, the State Department of Transportation currently owns and maintains the majority of roads and is therefore responsible for their repair. Should the state instead allow counties and municipalities to own and manage smaller roads, enabling local communities to more quickly address repairs and other infrastructure needs?	29
Some lawmakers have proposed allowing physician assistants and nurse practitioners to provide care without direct physician supervision in order to address healthcare workforce shortages. Supporters say this would expand access to care, especially in underserved areas, while critics argue that physician oversight is important for patient safety. Do you support or oppose allowing physician assistants and nurse practitioners to practice independently?	30
When it comes to medical malpractice laws, which do you believe is more important? [ROTATE]	31
