Charles Moore

TCTELA President

My mom taught ELA for 33 years, passing away a few years back. I had hoped that she would be here with us as we honor Texas educators and fulfill our obligation to literacy learners across our state. Her dedication to our work profession and to students across three decades mirrors work that has happened throughout our past and is reflected in the work that continues to this day. She was a tiny woman whose impact was mighty. Dad was a football coach and, later, an administrator whose influence extended across decades. It's no wonder that Mom's passion for literacy and Dad's drive to guide informed and responsible students led me to a career teaching English and coaching. It has been my honor to support more than two decades' worth of students in Galveston County and now a new generation in Brazoria County.

Serving the members of the Texas Council of Teachers of English Language Arts has been an incredible experience. Learning from other literacy leaders, digging in when the work got tough, and supporting teachers through an extremely challenging time in our organization's existence taught me so much about leadership and collaboration.

There may be lines drawn on maps that delineate where one town or district ends and the other begins, but that is not true about the crucial needs of students with regards to learning how to read and write. Our task, literacy growth, is urgent and demands that we work together in developing both in the pedagogy of our teaching craft and in the efficacy that we so desperately need.

#TCTELA24

Alissa Crabtree

TCTELA President-Elect

Fifty-nine years of forging connections among the human experience. Fifty-nine years of forging equitable learning experiences inside and outside of the classroom. Fifty-nine years of promoting the epic power of literacy.

It is with immense joy and anticipation that I extend a warm Texas-sized welcome to each and every one of you to the 59th Texas Council of Teachers of English Language Arts Conference 2024. As we embark on this literary journey together, our theme, "Forging the Future of Literacy," couldn't be more fitting. Get ready for a literary adventure like no other!

Our breakout sessions are not just sessions but transformative experiences waiting to happen. Picture this: educators from all corners of the Lone Star State converging to share ideas, strategies, and a laugh or two. We've curated a lineup that is as diverse as the great state of Texas itself, featuring sessions that will leave you inspired, informed, and possibly even questioning the definition of a run-on sentence.

Speaking of exceptional lineups, have you heard about our keynote speakers? Prepare to be awestruck, amused, and enlightened as we welcome luminaries who are not only experts in their fields but also have a knack for turning even the most complex literary theories into engaging narratives. Trust me, you won't want to miss these keynotes—consider them the literary rock stars of our conference.

In a world that seems more tumultuous by the day, the importance of literacy cannot be overstated. Literacy isn't just about decoding words on a page; it's about forging connections, understanding diverse perspectives, and navigating the complexities of the modern world. As educators, we are the torchbearers, guiding the way for the next generation of readers, writers, and critical thinkers.

So, let's come together not only to celebrate the power of literacy but also to laugh, learn, and create memories that will last a lifetime. After all, who said educators can't have a little fun while shaping the future? I look forward to learning and collaborating with you, ready to forge ahead into the future of literacy with Texas-sized enthusiasm.

ENGLISH IN TEXAS, VOL. 54.1

Spring/Summer 2024

Theme: Forge the Future of Literacy

Manuscript Deadline: April 1, 2024

Call for Submissions: "First, it is important to recognize what guides the decisions teachers make. It begins with the simple question: What do I believe as a teacher?" —Michael J. Young TCTELA President Charles Moore's 2024 conference theme, "Forge the Future of Literacy," calls on teachers to take charge of our future and to "reclaim the narrative of literacy learning" (Moore, 2023). As Young (2021) indicates, this reclamation must start with teachers contemplating their own beliefs. As teachers and sculptors of the future, it is essential that we determine what is important to us and forge the future by letting our beliefs about literacy learning craft the way.

For the Spring/Summer 2024 issue of English in Texas, we invite you to consider how you are forging the future and how you plan to do so going forward. Some pedagogical questions to consider for manuscript submissions are any of the following, any fusion of the following, or any extension beyond the following:

- What do you believe is essential for the future of literacy education?
- What literacy practices do you believe are ineffective and not beneficial for the future growth of our students?
- What must teachers do to protect the future of literacy education?
- What literacy skills will our students need in order to be successful in the future?
- How can we embolden teachers to advocate for the future of literacy education?
- How can we embolden students to advocate for their own future literacy needs?

More broadly, you may also consider the following:

- What does it mean to forge the future of literacy education?
- What stance and/or perspective are you planning to take as you forge the future of literacy education?

FOCUS ON THE THEME: We invite interested individuals to submit manuscripts, conceptual, creative, reflective, student-authored, pedagogical, research-based, and/or theoretical, as related to this topic of Forge the Future of Literacy.

INQUIRIES AND INNOVATIONS: Additionally, we welcome educational research relevant to the work of ELAR educators. These submissions could either be theme-dependent or could be more generally relevant to the ELAR education community.

ENGLISH IN TEXAS, VOL. 54.2

Fall/Winter 2024

Theme: The Changing Sounds of Literacy: Teaching and Learning in the Many Languages of Our Classrooms

Manuscript Deadline: September 3, 2024

Call for Submissions: "Ignoring the languages that learners bring to school is ignoring their prior knowledge and experiences in literacy, simply because they are not in English. Learners' linguistic capabilities and experiences across languages provide a fuller picture of their literacy skills and are valuable resources from which to draw or on which the learner can build literacy skills."

—Naomi Wilks-Smith

The Fall/Winter 2024 issue of English in Texas focuses on the linguistic capabilities and experiences students bring to the classroom, as well as the changing sounds in our classrooms. Our classrooms, grades PK-16+, share linguistic space between monolingual and bilingual students. This growing and talented population—students versed in multiple languages—holds the power to cross academic borders each day, multiple times a day, bringing "valuable resources from which to draw" (Wilks-Smith, 2017, p. 27).

Both Wilks-Smith and author Goldy Muhammad argue that these qualities create an important and skilled base for learning. Muhammad discusses the idea that "our children are already genius [sic] when they come to us in schools and classrooms. We only need to cultivate [these assets]" (Muhammad & Twal, 202, 3:07-3:14). Teachers today are working to grow both the genius and skills of students in our classrooms with more than one language at their disposal. This new, skilled learner creates an exciting sound in ELAR. Some pedagogical questions to consider for manuscript submissions are any of the following, any fusion of the following, or any extension beyond the following:

- What does a rewarding, shared linguistic space look like?
- How have the sounds of literacy changed in your classroom?
- How are both monolingual and bilingual students thriving in classrooms together?
- How are teachers utilizing thinking that relies on cultural and experiential funds of knowledge?
- How do classrooms honor space for both home languages and learned languages in academic discourses?

More broadly, you may also consider the following:

- What tools or pedagogies do you use to address the needs of many languages in your classroom?
- How have you seen linguistic capabilities develop across languages?

FOCUS ON THE THEME: We invite interested individuals to submit manuscripts, conceptual, creative, reflective, student-authored, pedagogical, research-based, and/or theoretical, as related to this topic of The Changing Sounds of Literacy: Teaching and Learning in the Many Languages of Our Classrooms.

INQUIRIES AND INNOVATIONS: Additionally, we welcome educational research relevant to the work of ELAR educators. These submissions could either be theme-dependent or could be more generally relevant to the ELAR education community.

STANDING COLUMNS: We also encourage brief contributions in the form of standing columns. These center on topics that interest you but do not necessarily align to an issue’s theme or full-length manuscript requirements. To submit any of these standing columns for publication consideration, please contact the editorial team at EnglishinTexas@uhd.edu with a 100-150 word summary of your idea BEFORE submitting.

The Local Arrangements Committee heartily welcomes you all to the 2024 TCTELA Conference at the incredible Kalahari Resorts & Conventions in Round Rock, Texas, for a weekend of excitement and learning.

Round Rock is a vibrant and growing city located just north of Austin, Texas. It is home to a diverse population of over 100,000 people, and it is known for its excellent schools, safe neighborhoods, and family-friendly amenities. During your stay, be sure to check out some of the following things to do:

- Enjoy all that downtown Round Rock has to offer: Quaint downtown Round Rock is home to numerous shops, restaurants, bars, wineries, and live music events.
- Explore the Old Settlers Park: The Old Settlers Park is a living history museum that tells the story of Round Rock's early settlers. The park features a variety of historic buildings, including a log cabin, a schoolhouse, and a blacksmith shop.
- Seek adventure at Kalahari's waterpark and enjoy its amenities: Whether staying at the Kalahari Resort or just visiting as a local, you will find adventure around every corner. Submerge in the massive indoor waterpark with a wave pool, a lazy river, and multiple water slides. Get your heart racing at Tom Foolery's, an 80,000 square foot indoor amusement park. Pamper yourself with treatments in the serena spa. Indulge in multiple restaurants and bars. Stretch your mind and body in the escape room or bowling alley. Teaching is tough, and our teachers deserve some fun. So, we encourage you to choose your own adventure and enjoy all that the Kalahari Resort has to offer.

Our profession continues to face unprecedented challenges and criticisms. In these difficult times, it is a blessing to have the opportunity to come together, to share and learn from one another, to strengthen our resolve, and to "Forge the Future of Literacy."

The Local Arrangements Committee would like to thank the TCTELA board for their guidance and support throughout the planning process. We also extend our gratitude to the many volunteers and local area businesses who have helped make this conference a reality.

In purpose there is direction. In unity there is strength. So, together, hand in hand, let us learn from one another. Welcome and enjoy your stay.

With sincere appreciation,

Jenn, Jenny, and Cody

WHO ARE TCTELA RISING LEADERS?

Rising Leaders:

- Demonstrate a passion for teaching, learning, and leadership in English language arts
- Collectively exhibit a broad range of diversity in position, location, cultural background, and perspective
- Hold promise as leaders
- Are committed to TCTELA’s mission and to pursuing leadership opportunities in the organization

How do I apply for the Rising Leaders program?

Applications will be accepted January 26 through April 1, 2024.

How are Rising Leaders selected?

Anyone can nominate candidates for the Rising Leaders program. Self-nominations are welcome.

Completed applications are scored by a selection panel of TCTELA board members using a rubric focused on the program goals. Finalists are forwarded to the executive committee for approval.

The sixth cohort of Rising Leaders will be announced May 3, 2024.

How many Rising Leaders are accepted to the program each year?

The selection committee will select four leaders each year from across Texas who represent diversity in multiple dimensions. Rising leaders will participate in the program for two years.

WHO ARE TCTELA AMBASSADORS?

The TCTELA Ambassadors program was established to assist in advancing the literacy growth of all Texas students by developing a network of diverse professionals and by providing access to professional development based on best practices in education. TCTELA exists as an ally for Texas RLA teachers, instructional coaches, and administrators.

Currently, there are eight Ambassadors who serve all 20 regions of Texas. Ambassadors are appointed for a two-year term. TCTELA Ambassador applications for our third cohort will be available online May 3 through June 7, 2024.

PENNY KITTLE 8:30AM-10:45AM KILIMANJARO 5

Micro Mentor Texts: Using Short Passages From Great Books to Teach Writer's Craft

We all want students who write clearly and powerfully. We can teach this through daily practice with passages from books and a close look at the decisions authors make to craft those texts. We lead students to see a book as a treasure chest of writing craft moves—the moves that skilled writers use. Students will learn and practice a wide range of writing skills from grammar in context, varied sentence patterns—both the art and feel of cohesion and style—as well as all the ways a writer is an artist of words. We have the power to fundamentally change the way students understand writing. Come to study and write together.

Penny Kittle teaches first year writers at Plymouth State University in New Hampshire. She was a teacher and literacy coach in public schools for 34 years. She is the author of nine books including Book Love, Write Beside Them (for which she received the James N. Britton award in 2009), and two books co-authored with Kelly Gallagher: 4 Essential Studies and 180 Days. She also co-authored two books with her mentor, Don Graves, and co-edited (with Tom Newkirk) a collection of Graves' work, Children Want to Write. Penny works beside teachers and leaders across the world to empower young readers and writers. She believes in curiosity, engagement, and deep thinking in schools for both students and their teachers. Penny stands on the shoulders of her mentors—the Dons (Murray & Graves) and the Toms (Newkirk & Romano)—in her belief that intentional teaching in a reading and writing workshop brings the greatest student investment and learning in a classroom.

In 2012, Penny and her husband founded the Book Love Foundation, a 5013c non-profit foundation with one goal: to put books in the hands of teenagers. She is the president of the Book Love Foundation and was given the Exemplary Leader Award from NCTE's Conference on English Leadership. The Book Love Foundation is passionately committed to teachers who aim instruction towards increasing volume, stamina, and joy in reading in middle and high school. Every classroom should be a celebration of reading. We need a book for every reader, recommended by readers, and shelved by interests to invite browsing. Each year the Board of Directors funds as many starter libraries of 500 highly engaging books for teenagers as possible. The foundation's partners, Heinemann Publishing and Book Source, have each agreed to fund one library each year. Since 2013, the Book Love Foundation has funded 120 classroom libraries. Its vision is to change the story of reading. We have to.

Every child. Every year. Every classroom.

EDMUND J. FARRELL DISTINGUISHED SERVICE & ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

JEFF ANDERSON AWARD PRESENTED DURING FRIDAY LUNCHEON 11:30AM-12:45PM KILIMANJARO 5

Jeff Anderson, also known as the Write Guy, has spent over 30 years working in literacy, first as a teacher and then as a writer of both professional books and the Zach Delacruz middle-grade fiction series. A lifelong Texan, Jeff's career has spanned Texas and across the United States. He spent time with students in the classroom in Houston, Austin, and San Antonio. Jeff also worked with TEA in the Special Education Division and as a staff developer with the Region 20 ESC. His professional writing and public speaking reached teachers across Texas and the United States as districts and conferences clamored for the ideas shared in his writing and his engaging, entertaining presentation style.

In 2007, his second book, Everyday Editing, was released two years after Mechanically Inclined. These ideas worked in tandem to fill an instructional void. "Jeff's invitations to notice and celebrate grammar through real literature and student writing brought real joy to something challenging, making it accessible, meaningful, and fun," said Dr. Michelle Becwar, Aldine ISD Program Director. His workshops attracted teachers because he never forgot the needs of the classroom. His focus is consistently on engaging the learners through interest and relevance. He understands his audience and that teachers have limited time. His books always provide ready samples to help teachers quickly make meaning and begin planning implementation.

His latest writing, the Patterns of Power series, was born from the need for additional support for teachers and students. Realizing that the intricacies of writing instruction shift with age and skill, Jeff partnered with fellow literacy experts from other grade bands to produce a wealth of resources for pre-k, elementary, middle school, and high school, including their POPcast podcast.

Although his accomplishments are many, those who have worked with Jeff would want it clarified that it's the person, not the writer, who is most deserving of the Edmund J. Farrell Award. He is warm and genuine with an incredible sense of humor and a giving, generous spirit. Former TCTELA President Kelly Tummy shared, "While Jeff's books on grammar and writing have had me hooked from the beginning, seeing Jeff in person in a workshop made me love him as well. His wealth of knowledge, boundless energy, kind spirit, and wicked sense of humor have drawn a crowd since day one. His love of music and playing with language always have teachers up on their feet and digging into their writing, creating precisely the same learning environment as he advocates for children."

Jeff has and expresses a genuine appreciation for teachers and their love of learning. Despite health issues that required him to focus on personal wellness, he remains committed to literacy and excellence in grammar instruction and is, overall, just an amazing guy, the "write guy" who reminds us always to celebrate early and often. It is the right time for the literacy community to celebrate him. He is a Texas leader in the field of English language arts, and his quality leadership and his body of work have and most definitely continue to "advance the growth of all Texas students," just as the Edmund J. Farrell Award embodies.

JUANA MARTINEZ-NEAL 11:30AM-12:45PM KILIMANJARO 5

Juana and How She Got Her Caldecott

Follow Caldecott Honor Winner Juana Martinez-Neal on the artistic journey that led her to create Alma and How She Got Her Name as well as the joy-filled bilingual board books Alma and Her Family/Alma y su familia and Alma, Head to Toe/Alma, de pies a cabeza. Through her gentle illustrations exuding whimsy, warmth, and words in English and Spanish, little ones and big ones alike will love getting to know Alma—and Juana too.

Juana Martinez-Neal is the recipient of the 2020 Sibert Medal for Fry Bread: A Native American Family Story written by Kevin Noble Maillard, the 2019 Caldecott Honor for Alma and How She Got Her Name, and the 2018 Pura Belpré Medal for Illustration for La Princesa and the Pea written by Susan Middleton Elya. She is the New York Times-bestselling illustrator of Tomatoes for Neela written by Padma Lakshmi.

Juana is also the illustrator of I Don't Care (written by Julie Fogliano and co-illustrated with Molly Idle, Neal Porter Books), A Perfect Fit: How Lena "Lane" Bryant Changed the Shape of Fashion (written by Mara Rockliff, Clarion), Babymoon, and Swashby and the Sea. Her second picture book as author and illustrator—Zonia's Rain Forest—is also available in Spanish as La Selva de Zonia (Candlewick Press). Alma, From Head to Toe/Alma, de pies a cabeza and Alma and Her Family/Alma y su familia are two forthcoming bilingual board books.

Juana was born and raised in Lima, Peru. She is a daughter and granddaughter of artists now living in the woods in Connecticut.

Graphic novels are rising in popularity among readers, creating opportunities to engage with these materials that directly link to the TEKS, foster lifelong skills, and offer cross-curricular opportunities. A graphic novel requires readers to delve between the lines, quite literally, connecting images and panels to incorporate more inferencing and comprehension than either a picture book or a traditional chapter book. Inviting readers into the world of graphic novels not only increases visual engagement but also encourages creative and critical thinking, fostering an adaptive classroom capable of meeting all students' learning differences.

The Power Wrapped Inside of Wordless Picture Books

Intended Audience:
P, E

Topics:
TD

Angela House, University of Texas at Austin

Wordless picture books provide opportunities for every reader to have access to story, characters, and joy while reading. These books grant readers the possibility of seeing themselves and others across the pages. Teachers can wrap phonological awareness, phonics, and oral language inside the pages of wordless picture books to connect picture books to the kinds of stories that children write. This allows children to take on the identity as a reader and a writer.

Empowering Tomorrow's Leaders: Forging Literacy and Heritage Preservation Among Indigenous Students From Latin America

Intended Audience:
P, E, M, H

Topics:
EL, TD

Esmeralda Cartagena Collazo, Texas Woman's University

Acknowledging Indigenous stories and culture through literacy and heritage preservation can profoundly impact Indigenous students from Latin America. In this session, participants will explore the creation of a meaningful curriculum that taps into students' funds of knowledge by integrating their home cultures and languages into daily instruction via culturally and linguistically relevant texts. By identifying culture as a means for personal and academic motivation, students can develop a sense of belonging and value their expertise. These practices help educators create a classroom that adapts to all learners' needs, especially those who are often marginalized and erased from the curriculum, resulting in inclusive and empowering learning spaces.

Literacy is the foundation that every student must be exposed to in order to have an exceptionally solid educational edifice. Every student deserves the opportunity to have a teacher in their lives who will nurture their abilities to critically read, write, think, and speak. This teacher will guide them beyond passing a test, and guide them to cultivating the dreams and goals that burn fire-red within their heart.

Twenty-three years in the classroom, and counting, have formed my belief that all students regardless of gender, ethnicity, religious beliefs, socioeconomic status, labels, etc., deserve the best critical literacy instruction possible. In order for this to happen, educators must never stop learning themselves.

Students have a story that should be shared and acknowledged. Students have culture, language, and funds of knowledge that need to be leveraged in the classroom. Students have a voice that should be used to speak up against injustices. Students have the right to read books in which they see themselves represented. Students have the right to believe in their opinions while not degrading opposing thoughts. During this turbulent politically driven era, educators must know that with TCTELA, they never walk alone.

VP-ELECT FOR MEMBERSHIP AND AFFILIATES

Literacy educators know the power and necessity of a literate society. Learning to read and reading to learn is the foundation, which leads to reading to empathize, to analyze, and to inspire. We do not want our students only to exist as readers, but also as writers. We hope for texts to inspire their own thoughts to the point that they must share their thoughts. As literacy educators, we want this for all students, and not every student must follow the same path. Equity in literacy education demands that we provide all our students with opportunities to read and write what they choose. In addition, it requires us to provide them with complex texts and guide them through those texts.

I believe in literacy education. I believe it is critical for a true democracy to function and flourish. Many leaders may fear a literate society, which is why so many want to villainize our work in our state (and in our country). While this makes our work harder, it does not diminish its necessity. Organizations such as TCTELA are actively working to dispel the misinformation about literacy and to focus on the core needs of our students in Texas. Having an organization that supports English teachers in Texas is necessary for teachers, for students, for families, for our state.

DR. RONI DEAN-BURREN LITERACY LEADER OF THE YEAR AWARD

DAMICO BARTLEY AWARD PRESENTED DURING FRIDAY GENERAL SESSION 2:30PM-3:45PM KILIMANJARO 5

Damico Bartley has served for eight years as the principal at Ross Sterling Middle School in Humble ISD, where he has demonstrated exceptional leadership, dedication, and a profound commitment to literacy instruction and the growth of students in both reading and writing. He has proven himself to be an inspirational leader, capable of not only envisioning but also implementing innovative literacy practices to enhance students’ educational experiences. He was the first to pilot and embed a program that assisted his students reading on lower levels, resulting in student gains that led to district acknowledgement. He further pursues this notion by embarking on large Hispanic Heritage Festivals and Black History Live Museum and Plays.

He is not only an advocate of reading books but also for students seeing themselves within the pages of those books. Damico uses his campus motto of Kids First to make his vision a reality, putting students’ literacy needs at the forefront of decision-making and aligning resources to the literacy needs of students.

Damico Bartley possesses a profound understanding of educational trends, best practices, and the ever-evolving needs of learners. He has successfully implemented a literacy program built to bridge gaps for struggling readers and writers. Damico’s commitment to literacy instruction inspires his staff, establishing a growth mindset, encouraging professional development, and nurturing a culture of continuous improvement.

Grammar on the Rise: Baking Brilliance Into Language Instruction

Just as a skilled chef carefully selects and combines ingredients to create a culinary masterpiece, educators can strategically employ grammar and language conventions to craft compelling pieces of writing. Join Travis Leech, co-author of Patterns of Power, to explore how we can knead grammar patterns seamlessly into our classroom or whip up a literary feast by sprinkling grammar into our instructional repertoire.

Travis Leech is an educator, presenter, and author who is known not only for his ability to reach items off the top shelf at the grocery store but also for his expertise in empowering adolescent writers. From an early age, Travis had a deep love for reading and writing, often immersing himself in tales of adventure that filled the pages of countless spiral notebooks. While he didn't particularly enjoy traditional grammar instruction during his school years, he discovered a transformative approach that reshaped his teaching career.

Embarking on his journey as a middle school English language arts teacher, Travis had the good fortune of encountering Jeff Anderson's influential works Mechanically Inclined and Everyday Editing. These books introduced him to a fresh perspective on grammar instruction, emphasizing the importance of students observing, discussing, and applying grammar concepts found in exemplary writing by young adult authors. Inspired by Anderson's innovative approach, Travis has seamlessly integrated these grammar invitations into his roles as a middle school teacher, gifted and talented specialist, instructional coach, and as a co-author of the Patterns of Power resources for secondary classrooms.

Outside of the classroom, Travis spends his free time experimenting with new recipes, getting lost in media of all kinds, connecting with family, and exploring the vast expanse of Texas and beyond, accompanied by his wife, Keri, and their beloved dogs. Currently residing in San Antonio, Texas, Travis Leech brings his unwavering passion and expertise to empower both educators and students alike.

Writing Home: Telling and Uplifting Our Places on the Margins

Whether it's the eerie marshes of Charles Dickens' Kent or the storm-ravaged bayous of Jesmyn Ward's Mississippi, books have the power to steep us in places foreign and familiar. And for many marginalized writers and readers, we have just begun to see our geographical and cultural places—our homes—celebrated in literature. Author and professor Kimberly Garza, a native Texan, discusses the importance of place in books, and the continued vital need of place-driven narratives from unsung communities.

Kimberly Garza is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin and the University of North Texas, where she earned a PhD in 2019. Her fiction and nonfiction have appeared in Copper Nickel, DIAGRAM, Creative Nonfiction, TriQuarterly, and elsewhere. A native Texan—born in Galveston, raised in Uvalde—she is an assistant professor of creative writing and literature at the University of Texas at San Antonio. The Last Karankawas is her first novel.

TAMIKA BARTLEY AWARD PRESENTED DURING SATURDAY GENERAL SESSION 8:30AM-10:00AM KILIMANJARO 5

There are many buzzwords in education. Unfortunately, the idea of multiculturalism has now become a buzzword due to hyper-political lenses often applied to education. But in truth and practice, it is a framework and a belief system in which diverse cultures are acknowledged, honored, and woven into the instructional fabric, creating equitable, safe, liberated learning spaces.

The Mercedes Bonner Leadership Award recognizes and celebrates the work of an educator who understands this belief system, practices multiculturalism, and fights for students, especially BIPOC students, to be seen, heard, and given space in school systems to grow. Tamika Bartley is not only a champion for multiculturalism and solving multicultural issues in our school systems but also a living testimony of why understanding cultures and making space for culture and diversity in the curriculum matters.

Tamika served as a Teacher Development Specialist in Houston ISD working primarily with middle schools, and she immediately noticed the inequities in the curriculum and literacy initiatives when it came to serving Black and Hispanic students in the district. She realized that predominantly Black and Hispanic schools did not have access to rich, diverse texts in the district-supplied classroom libraries compared to predominantly White schools and those schools in affluent communities. She worked with literacy leaders to address her concerns.

She also revamped her team's approach to designing and delivering professional development to middle school teachers. She started the practice of featuring book talks at the start of each session. This quickly became a common practice in many sessions and even in the classrooms of the teachers who frequently attended her sessions. After Houston ISD, Tamika continued to expand on her work in multiculturalism and equity. She started Books and Brushes Literacy, a business dedicated to spreading a love of literacy through picture books and to encouraging reader responses via illustration. This practice was incorporated in her professional development with teachers improving student engagement and literacy outcomes.

Tamika leads book clubs with teachers and students in her community. She continues to have a positive impact on multiculturalism in Texas as a Secondary ELA Coordinator at Sheldon ISD. There, she works with teachers to build rich, diverse libraries and texts to support the curriculum. She is a member of several professional organizations like HAABSE, TCTELA, TCEA, and NCTE. She has presented sessions exploring multiculturalism, the importance of diverse texts, employing Talk Read Talk Write to improve comprehension, and incorporating other content in the ELA classroom at conferences including NCTE, HAABSE, HCDE, and Region 4. She is a phenomenal educator and deserving recipient of the Mercedes Bonner Award.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Vonthisha DeFriend

Vonthisha DeFriend is a truly outstanding elementary teacher, and through her dedication to our profession, she clearly exemplifies TCTELA's core values. In her continued effort to share the joys of the interconnected nature of reading and writing, Vonthisha advocates for her students, never ceasing to put their needs first.

Vonthisha was a nonreader who found the joy of reading through her college professor. She has since been on a quest to find and share with her own classroom the best that children's literature has to offer. Her passion has positively impacted her young readers for the past seven years. She has also shared her story about learning to love books beyond her classroom, having been interviewed for a podcast and professional presentation and having contributed to a piece on teacher retention in English in Texas.

Vonthisha has taught kindergarten, first grade, and third grade in both Galena Park ISD and Houston ISD. She is currently a third grade teacher at Sam Houston Elementary in Galena Park where she serves as her team lead. Last year, Vonthisha was selected as the Campus Teacher of the Year, her team was honored with the Team of the Year award, and she even earned the School Spirit Award. Her infectious passion and spirit are obvious beyond her campus as well, as she is active on X (formerly Twitter) where she is forever lauding the efforts of her students. It is always about her students, and it is this commitment to our youngest learners that makes Vonthisha DeFriend the TCTELA Elementary Teacher of the Year.

MIDDLE SCHOOL TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Jordan James

Jordan James makes her students and fellow colleagues feel valued, accepted, and worthy. As a classroom teacher, she manages to make each student feel like an individual, adapting to fit each student's needs, and holding each student accountable for meeting expectations. She does all of these things while also making them feel accepted, welcomed, loved, and challenged. Many teachers work decades before being able to come close to what Jordan James naturally does as an educator. She has managed to find that elusive balance between caregiver, coach, and champion.

As a department chair and literacy lead on her campus, she welcomes and supports new teachers, assisting them as they learn a new system and collaborating to hone teaching skills along the way. Her positivity is infectious, making school an exciting destination.

Jordan is an education advocate and active TCTELA member. She was named a TCTELA Rising Leader in 2022 and presented at the annual conference in January 2023.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Amber Funderburgh

Amber Funderburgh is a standout educator worthy of distinction. She possesses a wealth of knowledge and experience from a career that has spanned seventh grade ELA to English II. She has served as a PLC team lead, a district curriculum design team member, and a teacher mentor for her district's inaugural Learning Leaders program. Amber regularly volunteers to share her knowledge with her peers by presenting at district meetings, institutes, and the NCTE national conference.

A large part of her students' success is due to her passion for writing pedagogy. Amber has co-directed UT Austin's Heart of Texas Writing Project for many years. She also runs the Leander Writes Institute for teachers of Leander ISD, where she leads two cohorts per year.

More important than Amber's leadership roles, she creates a classroom environment that welcomes all students. Her room is filled with books, anchor charts, and student work. She honors her classroom of readers and writers by providing engaging learning experiences within a workshop structure.

Her unwavering belief in students and their learning draws like-minded colleagues to her. At every school, she has advocated for the professional development of her colleagues, for administrators to give decision-making power to the classroom teachers who know students best, and for teachers' knowledge and experience to be recognized.

UNIVERSITY TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Alexandra (Ale) Babino

Dr. Alexandra Babino consistently demonstrates an unwavering commitment to her students, fostering an environment that is both intellectually stimulating and personally enriching. She exudes a remarkable blend of kindness, approachability, and genuine passion for teaching.

What distinguishes Dr. Babino is her innate ability to inspire and motivate others. She goes beyond the conventional role of an educator, extending her support and mentorship, encouraging students to explore beyond the confines of the syllabus. Her classes are not merely about disseminating information but also extend to nurturing critical thinking, creativity, and a profound understanding of the subject matter.

Her teaching methodology, characterized by innovative and interactive approaches, has consistently captivated students' attention, creating an effective and enjoyable learning process. Dr. Babino has a remarkable talent for making complex concepts comprehensible and relatable.

Moreover, her inspiring demeanor and passion for her field have not only influenced students within the classroom but have also left a lasting impact on the broader academic community. Her dedication, kindness, and inspiring nature have not only made a significant impact on students but also contributed immensely to the academic environment at Texas Woman's University.

The Heavy Hitters of Intermediate Literacy: Multisyllabic Decoding and Morphology

Intended Audience:
M, H

Topics:

Jennifer Thomas, 95 Percent Group

To equip our students with the rigorous demands of complex text in upper grades, we need to bring out the “heavy hitters” of intermediate word work: multisyllabic decoding routines and morphology. This session will showcase efficient instruction to get the job done: replicable, reliable routines to teach our students to fearlessly attack big words while building morphological understandings to accelerate vocabulary growth.

Nicole Calleros, Galena Park ISD

Carmen McWilliams, Galena Park ISD

Join us to discuss integrating artificial intelligence (AI) in the RLA classroom. Our goal is to discuss ways to harness AI's potential while maintaining a student-centered approach as we continue the conversation of technology's role in the classroom. Let's look at leveraging AI tools and platforms to enhance student learning while navigating and acknowledging important ethical considerations. What practical strategies exist for integrating AI into personalized instruction, and assessment, in an effective and meaningful way?

Topics:
EL, TD

Christopher Duke, Dublin ISD

As RLA educators, it is essential for our students' success to create spaces in our classrooms and school buildings where they can write authentically about themselves and the world around them. This is indispensable in Title I schools where students rarely get to have a voice in their own lives. To forge the future of literacy, we must create stronger spaces for them to be able to create and write in their own voice.

Kenna Pharmakis, Clear Creek ISD

Are you ready to move on from teaching grammar in isolation? Come to engage in an authentic grammar model lesson rooted in Jeff Anderson's instructional strategy of noticing patterns in sentences structures and punctuation usage. This session will help you rethink the way you teach grammar, specifically commas. We will utilize our own reading and writing to learn about how commas function and create meaning. Don't forget to bring the book you are currently reading!

Cultivating and Forging Multilingual Literacy: Nurturing the Voices of Emergent Bilingual Students

Intended Audience:
P, E, M

Topics:
EL, TD

Esmeralda Cartagena Collazo, Texas Woman's University

While recent strides have been made in teaching emergent bilinguals, many newcomer students struggle with biliteracy due to English-centric education. This focus on English neglects the richness of students' home languages. By incorporating multilingual teaching, this talk advocates for improved learning outcomes, emotional well-being, and literacy growth. The session covers embracing multilingualism's significance, leveraging home languages, creating inclusive classrooms, fostering belonging, integrating multicultural literature, and highlighting the holistic benefits of nurturing newcomer students' languages.

Topics:

Lisa Edwards, University of Houston-Downtown

In prekindergarten and kindergarten, children are exposed to new and unknown words daily through exploration and read-aloud. Reading picture books aloud provides children with a rich context to gain an understanding of a word or text. The word meanings are reinforced through conversations when these words are used in a meaningful way. Yes, even in prekindergarten, students can turn and talk with a peer.

Phonological instruction at school might be supplemented with phoneme practices at home. Parents can provide phonics tasks with guidance from teachers. Thus, parents might be trained by teachers on phonic strategies to facilitate these routines for their children at home. This practice session will present strategies that teachers can use to train linguistically diverse parents on basic systematic phonics routines which can be mirrored at home with their children as early readers.

Reluctant writers need more support. Elementary students sometimes receive ineffective feedback. Effective writing conferences can help. When teachers notice students' writing strengths and provide specific positive feedback, students are more open to discuss how to improve their writing. This roundtable discussion will describe an ongoing action research project of two classes and the impact of effective feedback in a writing conference approach. Research has shown that students' writing self-efficacy grows as they receive effective positive feedback.

Texas, along with several other states, has enacted laws and policies that have had a chilling effect on which books teachers include in their classrooms. This has led many K-12 literacy educators to self-censor the materials they use in an attempt to avoid running afoul of the law. Presenters will focus on what these policies and laws actually say to both direct and empower teachers to make the best choice of materials for their classrooms.

A Team Effort to Transform Reading and Writing

Momentum is growing for sustainable changes to reading and writing instruction for all children in our schools. Attendees will learn about the Knowledge Acquisition and Transformation (KAT) and We Write frameworks that promote systematic and structured change from the curricula scope and sequence to instructional practices and leadership for implementing change. The research evidence with quantitative and qualitative data will be presented along with actionable change that can be made by every school. The frameworks presented address the needs of all children in K-12 classrooms including monolingual, bilingual, special education, and striving students.

Dr. Kausalai (Kay) Wijekumar is Houston Endowment Chair, Chancellor's EDGES Fellow, and Director for the Center for Urban School Partnerships at Texas A&M University. She is a passionate advocate for all children and dedicates her research, development, and dissemination efforts to eradicating illiteracy. She has developed web-based intelligent tutoring systems for reading and writing in English and Spanish. She has further developed and integrated teacher professional development systems using the web-based tools. Dr. Wijekumar's efforts have secured over $80 million in funding to improve reading and writing for all children. Her recent work integrates podcasts for families to encourage reading and writing at home. She is a musician, avid gardener, and world traveler.

GF Educators	Our focus and mission is to develop the best products we can for the teachers and students of Texas. We began developing products for Texas teachers and students over 30 years ago when the TABS test was first introduced. As the standards and testing have continued to evolve in Texas, we have been there the entire way through the Essential Elements and TEAMS testing, through the transition to the TEKS with the TAKS test and now the STAAR assessment. We are dedicated to developing materials focused on the TEKS and the TEKS only. We do not develop materials for use outside Texas. This focus on the TEKS gives us a unique insight into the intricacies of the standards used within Texas classrooms and the struggles our teachers and students face as they try to implement these standards. Everyone who develops materials for GF Educators has had extensive experience within a Texas classroom, and most have developed district-wide resources or worked within TEA.	http://www.stepupteks.com

DREAM Program

Research suggests that children benefit in many ways from having a teacher of the same race or ethnicity. According to research by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), there are 49.5 million students in classrooms—55 percent are students of color, and 45 percent are white. As student diversity increases, teacher diversity has yet to. Black and brown educators contribute most to high teacher turnover rates. As such, programs like this are essential to ensuring students have educators who look like them and share similar cultural beliefs and practices.

TCTELA's Dream Program is a two-year mentorship program designed to build community with future ELAR educators of color. This program connects future educators to professional development, career opportunities, and a growing community of diverse educators and instructional leaders across Texas.

Program participants will:

- receive free TCTELA student membership, swag, professional resources, and paid registration to two annual conferences.
- participate in professional learning opportunities, quarterly mentor meetings, job preparation roundtables, and two book studies.
- present at the annual conference at the end of their cohort about their experience in the Dream Program.

As an organization, we want to be a part of growing future Texas teachers who feel supported and included during their late high school years and through their college experience. As such, we have recently partnered with the Texas Association of Future Educators (TAFE). This opportunity allows Dream Program leaders to help support high school juniors and seniors interested in pursuing a career in ELAR education. TAFE members, upon entering college, will automatically enter the Dream Program. These future educators will have an opportunity to be in community with their peers and current classroom educators, as well as receive continued support, a vital piece in professional growth and longevity in the field.

2022-2024 Cohort:

Karla Cardenas, University of Texas

Elisa Ramirez, University of Houston–Downtown

2023-2025 Cohort:

Davon McLean, University of Houston–Downtown

Cyndol Davis, Sam Houston State University

Andrew Martin, Sam Houston State University

Applications for the 2024-2026 cohort will be available in November. To learn more, please email dream.tctela@gmail.com.
