

Damon Pyke

Regional Coordinator – Western Australia

“I seek to play a part in the global challenge of sustainable development and conservation of biodiversity, through supporting evidence-based, local and novel solutions incorporating effective and genuine community and stakeholder engagement.”

Based in Broome, Western Australia, Damon has over 15 years’ experience in northern and central Australia working with Indigenous communities in land and sea management. He has supported local and regional organisations to plan for, implement and monitor Healthy Country programs.

Damon can provide support relating to community facilitation; appropriate and respectful Traditional Owner engagement; establishing and implementing MERI (monitoring, evaluation, reporting and improvement) strategies; and partnerships and collaborative programs. As Regional Coordinator in WA, Damon will support partnership, collaboration, and peer-peer learning in WA.

Damon specialises in:

Implementing Conservation Standards and Healthy Country Planning projects | Indigenous ranger capability development | strategic planning | operational planning | ranger team professional development | information systems
