Hi Lee,

Jefferson is correct, I was looking for input on the language used in the social media post (in the table below). I included the links to the video for reference. I can send them to you via MS Teams chat.

From what I understand, it's just the language in the table in the email – the links are to the existing videos that ran last year

Hi Jefferson!

I hope you had an excellent vacation and feel well rested 😊.

We are looking to re-promote the pronoun videos throughout Pride Season. I've drafted the following post to accompany the video with the scenario where someone has unknowingly misgendered the person they are in communication with. Would it be possible for you to review the following posts and provide us with your feedback?

Thank you so much!
 Jeanne

Comment s'adresser à une personne inconnue par courriel? C'est parfois délicat. Présomptions et préjugés implicites peuvent induire en erreur, sans le savoir.

Déterminer comment s'adresser à une personne à qui vous envoyez un courriel pour la première fois peut être délicat. Les présomptions et les préjugés implicites peuvent vous amener à vous tromper sans le savoir sur le genre du destinataire.

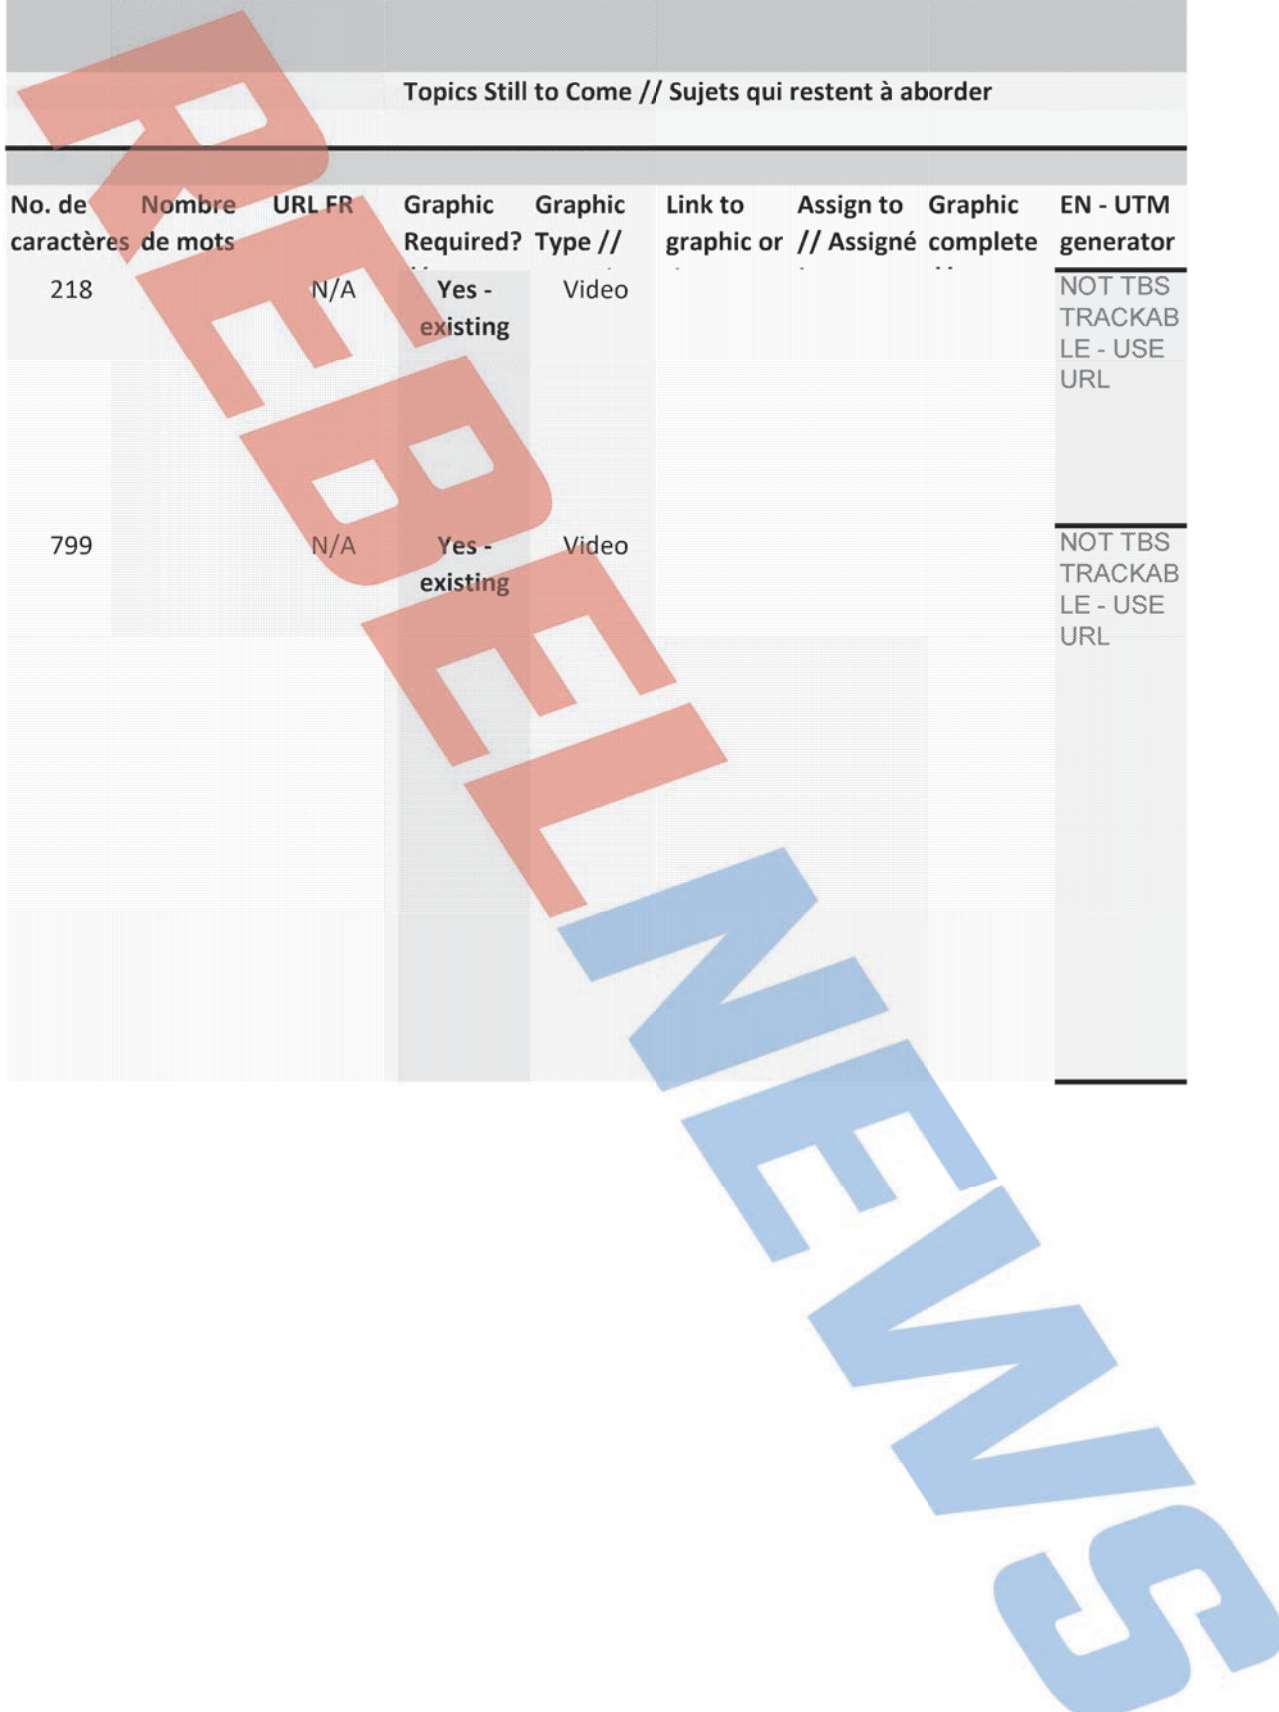

De telles situations peuvent être délicates à gérer pour les deux parties, en particulier pour le destinataire. Cela peut provoquer chez lui des sentiments de gêne, de stress et d'anxiété et il peut vous corriger sur l'utilisation de ses pronoms.

Comment se rattraper dans ces cas-là? Regardez la vidéo pour voir un exemple.

N'oubliez pas que le progrès n'est pas linéaire et que les gens font des erreurs. Faites un effort conscient pour en découvrir davantage sur le langage inclusif et envisagez d'ajouter vos pronoms à votre signature électronique.
