Alumni Features and Updates

Ainka Fulani, WG '03 - Founder BreakThrough Coaching

Please provide an overview of your current business venture

I started BreakThrough Coaching in 2008. I am a Career Coach, an Executive Coach, some call me a Life Coach. I am a Wholistic Coach - meaning I coach the whole person. In my practice, I work with individuals and organizations to help them create systems that support learning, achieving excellence, maximizing efficiency and impact, all while keeping well-being in mind. Consulting on organizational design, workforce planning, performance management and strategy, for example, are some of the ways that I help to create "Best Places to Work."

Executive Presence and Influence

Alumni Exclusive: Executive Presence and Influence: Persuasive leadership Development

We are pleased to announce a Wharton-alumni-exclusive, tuition-free offering of the online course Executive Presence and Influence: Persuasive Leadership Development (Wharton Alumni Edition), taught by Professors Mike Useem and Cade Massey.

In this course, you will learn the fundamentals of leadership and communication skills to be more effective in sharing your ideas for maximum impact.

Course topics include understanding informal influence and cultivating your network, as well as strengthening your leadership presence and persuasively communicating your vision.

Thanks to many generous donors, including over 10,000 to the Wharton Fund, the only cost to you is a $25 registration fee

100% online, independent learning, which means you can take the course at your own pace

Access to course materials from January 30–April 7, 2023 (10 weeks). The course is designed to take six weeks (four to six hours per week), allowing ample time to finish.

EXCELLENT Opportunity! Chief Marketing Officer!

An Investment Company founded and led by a dynamic (but low key and personable!) African American CEO is seeking a Chief Marketing Officer & Client Portfolio Manager. This is a player/coach role reporting directly to the CEO. The firm is seeking someone who can create and execute a marketing strategy. Writing and client service/client management are also important. The firm has offices and/or professionals in Miami, Los Angeles, Minnesota, Texas, Illinois..... there is some flexibility in the location, and you will be expected to travel some. This C suite role is charged with growing AUM, and, in addition to salary, the COO will receive a bonus, potential commissions, and, eventually, opportunity for equity. Excellent work/like balance; genuine collegial work environment.
