

Hospitality University Award for Excellence in Tourism Development

The Hospitality University Awards Committee is seeking nominations for the Excellence in Tourism Development Award which recognizes significant financial investment in the development or expansion of tourism business and its impact on the destination.

The nomination should include a tourism business that has demonstrated a significant financial investment in the development or expansion of tourism business and its impact on that destination. Nominees must be affiliated with a West Virginia tourism business, organization, or educational institution with a tourism track.

The awards will be bestowed at the Hospitality University Conference at The Greenbrier on February 28, 2023, during the closing luncheon. (Additional information and pages may be attached)
